HAS NOT CHOSEN THE CHAIRMAN

Governor Wilson Says He Has Not Decided Upon Head of National Committee

W'ADDO FOR TREASURER

Body Will Meet to Plan Campaign in Chicago July 15, Is Announcement

SEA GIRT, N. J., July 5.—That his mind is still open as to who shall be chairman of the democratic national committee, was the positive declaration of Governor Wilson today. The governor said that he will listen to all of the arguments on the subject and will then decide who he believes is best fitted for the position.

"In any matter as momentous as this," said the governor "I never make up my mind finally until just before I am to announce my decision. That will be the case in this case, and my choice will not be made public until announced at Chicago on July 15."

Sees McAdoo.

William G. McAdoo, who is prominently mentioned for the treasurership of the coming campaign, was closeted with Wilson for several hours today. Neither McAdoo or Wilson would discuss the topic of conversation, although the governor said that it was not the treasurership.

Joseph Daniels, national committeeman from North Carolina, and Robert H. Hays, committeeman from New Jersey, both of whom have been suggested for the chairmanship of the national committee, were called to the governor's study today. They said they had merely called to pay their respects.

E. F. Grosscup, chairman of the democratic state committee of New Jersey, called on Gov. Wilson and asked him to invite James Smith, Jr., and James Nugent, the Essex county leaders, who have bitterly opposed the governor, to visit Sea Girt with the other members of the state delegation. The visit is to be made next Monday and Wilson said he hoped that both men would come.

Expect James.

Governor Wilson was up early today, expecting to receive at the "Little White House" Ollie James of Kentucky, permanent chairman of the Baltimore convention, and Senator O'Gorman, of New York. James sent word to the governor that he would come here today to make final arrangements for the visit if the official notification committee. The governor said that he had decided not to issue any formal letter of acceptance but to make his speech to the country in such a way as to fully cover the situation.

The Congress hotel of Chicago has been selected as the place and July 15 as the time for the official meeting of the national committee to plan the campaign.

ORATORY IN GOTHAM

NEW YORK, July 5.—Fireworks were taboed and the declaration of independence was the feature of the day, coming into its own again in what was promised to be a safe and sanest Fourth of July that New York ever had. Starting with a "sun rise meeting" at 5 a. m. in Central park, the day's program included meetings in city hall park, Tammany hall, Grant's tomb, and half a dozen other places, all marked by the reading of the declaration.

LINDSEY WITH T. R.

DENVER, Col., July 5.—A telegram from Guthrie, Okla., today says Judge Ben Lindsey announced that, in all probability, he would accept the request of Colonel Roosevelt that he run for vice president on the third party ticket, with the colonel. This announcement indicates that Roosevelt has personally requested the judge to make the race.

WON'T REOPEN CASE.

CHICAGO, July 5.—In the municipal court Judge Slusser today denied a motion of attorneys for J. C. Henning to reopen the case for $25,000 damages against Charles Funk, general manager of the International Harvester company. Henning alleges Funk alienated the affections of Mrs. Henning.

ARGUMENT IS FATAL

CHICAGO, July 5.—An argument over the newspaper strike here resulted today in probably fatal wounds on John Moran, a former newspaper worker. The police are informed that Moran and John Gould, a strike breaker, became involved in a quarrel, and that Gould shot Moran twice.

RACE RIOT OVER FIGHT

ST. LOUIS, July 5.—A sarcastic reference to Pugilist Jim Flynn started a near race riot here today and resulted in one of the negro participants being shot, probably fatally, by a patrolman.

FOURTH CLAIMS BADGER VICTIMS

Three Killed at Oshkosh While Mixing Potash and Sulphur Explosive

TORPEDO EXPLODES IN MOUTH

Appleton Man Mistakes Torpedo for Candy; Cannot Recover from Injuries

OSHKOSH, Wis., July 5.—While mixing potash and sulphur, preparing explosive caps for the Fourth of July, Paul Hoeft, aged 22; Anton Hoeft, aged 18, and Erwin Pommerening, aged 14, of Milwaukee, were killed almost instantly.

Bodies Are Mangled.

The explosion occurred about twelve feet from the Hoeft home and the side of the house was wrecked. The victims' bodies were badly mangled.

Paul Hoeft was to have been married on Aug. 14 to Miss Mary Spanbauer.

The Hoeft boys were brothers, and had planned to celebrate the fourth together. For several days they had been making purchases and planned to use the caps in their celebration.

The force of the explosion shattered the windows of nearby houses, and neighbors rushed from their homes, fearful that some gigantic explosion had taken place.

Helping Make Mixture.

The Pommerening boy was aiding the brothers in making the mixture and he was bending over them as they worked when the explosion occurred.

Miss Spanbauer fainted when she was informed of the tragic end of her fiancé.

Bites Torpedo

APPLETON, Wis., July 5.—Andrew Hoffman, aged 52 years, lies at St. Elizabeth's hospital in a fatal condition as a result of a torpedo which exploded in his mouth. Wednesday night Hoffman purchased some caramels and torpedoes. In reaching into his pocket he mistook the explosive for the candy and when his teeth came down on the torpedo an explosion followed which took away the roof of his mouth. He cannot live.

FALLS 60 FEET ASLEEP

MINNEAPOLIS, July 5.—Patrick Ryan went to sleep on the bank of the Mississippi, rolled off, fell sixty feet, struck a sharp rock with his head on the way down and fell into the river unconscious. He was rescued by a policeman, only slightly injured.

HEAT KILLS THREE

CHICAGO, July 5.—Three deaths and a score of prostrations was the toll of the heat in Chicago. The mercury climbed toward 90 this afternoon and weather experts predicted this would be the hottest day of the year, with no immediate relief in sight.

CUT OUT ADMIRALS

WASHINGTON, July 5.—The senate this afternoon eliminated from the naval appropriation bill the provisions creating the grades of admiral and vice admiral in the navy's line. Passage of the measure was expected late this afternoon.

CLUB WOMAN HAS OPERATION

SAN FRANCISCO, July 5.—Mrs. Sarah Platt-Decker, the noted Colorado suffragist and reform leader, who has been ill here with intestinal trouble since Monday, was put under the knife at 10 o'clock this morning.

PLANS PRIMARY FOR PRESIDENT

Norris of Nebraska Proposes Improvement in National Election Law

WASHINGTON, July 5.—A nation wide presidential primary plan was proposed to the house today by Representative Norris of Nebraska as an antidote for "boss rule" in politics. The measure seeks to avoid conflict with the constitution by requiring that state legislatures must adopt its provisions as state laws, and that the plan is null unless ratified by twenty states.

The bill provides primaries to be held on the first Tuesday in May in election years and a national convention on the fourth Monday in June. At the primaries the voters would be called on to express a first and second choice for president, and to choose delegates.

COPELAND PARK FILLED TO BRIM

THE PROGRAM IS COMPLETED

Something Going On All the Time; Fireworks Attracts a Huge Crowd

Thousands of people from La Crosse and surrounding villages and towns took part in the Fourth of July celebration at Copeland Park which was held under the auspices of the North Side Progressive league. From the opening of the program at noon with the flag raising exercises by the girls of the Copeland playground until the "good night" signal was flashed over the waters at the close of the fireworks, the people continued to throng the park, wandering from one center of amusement to another.

Despite the heavy rain which broke forth in the morning, causing a delay of two hours in the opening of the program, the committee in charge managed to complete the schedule which had been arranged.

Children Give Drill

At 1 o'clock, 100 girls of the Copeland park marched to the center of the grounds headed by a boy and girl representing Uncle Sam and Columbia and opened the flag raising exercises. The girl unfurled the flag which was raised by Uncle Sam. Following this the flag drill was given by the children after which patriotic songs were sung.

The beautiful display of fireworks in the evening was the best number on the program. Many expensive settings including an imitation of Niagara Falls, aerial rainbows, a summer storm and the octopus, which were procured at a large expense, kept the thousands of people lined up along the opposite shore, in an ecstasy of pleasure. The setting which closed the program, the words "good night," in large letters of all colors was one of the best settings of the program. The big flag setting, with which it had been planned to open the program, was destroyed by the morning rain.

Lights on Paths

Long rows of electric lights were strung along the paths of the park in front of the tents, and illuminated the park in the evening. Several church societies served lunch and dinners on the grounds.

Among the special features were the dancing pavilion, the wrestling show and the merry-go-round, and the speaking program which was as follows:

Dedication speech, Mayor John Dengler.

Fourth of July Oration, John H. Moss, Milwaukee.

Mr. Moss who was formerly president of the Milwaukee Business Men's association, proved to be an excellent speaker, holding the attention of his audience at all times. Other numbers on the program were:

Drill by Onalaska Boy Scouts; Boys' sack race; girls' race under ten years; boys' three-legged race; girls' race under 16 years; fat man's race; ladies peanut race; midlets race, under 4 feet 10 inches; 100 yard race, free-for-all; Walking of greased pole over the water; boys' swimming race.

Parade

About sixty floats representing business firms of La Crosse, took part in the parade which formed at the market square at 10 o'clock and after marching through the business streets of the south side, marched to Copeland Park. The parade was somewhat marred by the sudden burst of rain which overtook the advance section as it reached the causeway, drenching a large number who took part, including the children of the Copeland playground who were in three large open wagons.

Probably the most attractive feature of the parade was the Obrecht band which led the second division of the parade. Two other bands also took part in the parade.

The motorboat race between Bob Henry and Mr. Blanchard, won by the former, was a fine event and the boats were close together up to the finish. A large crowd witnessed the race from the shore and a cheer went up as the speedy craft went along the course in an even race. The course pursued by the power boats was from bridge to bridge in front of the park and both men managed the crafts in good style. Excellent time was made in this event and a large crowd was lined up along the shore watching the progress of the two motorboats.

Another event which proved interesting was the rowing race in which Jim Squires was the victor. The contestants ran a good race, the two boat races being interesting to many people.

After having rain interfere with their scheduled games twice, the Nelson Clothing company and the Viroqua baseball clubs finally got together.

TOO WRAPPED UP IN HER HUSBAND'S PROSPECTS TO THINK OF WHITE HOUSE

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson says she never thought of living in the White house until a reporter suggested it to her on the evening of the day that her husband was nominated.

"I have been so wrapped up in Mr. Wilson's prospects," she told the reporter, "that I have thought of little else. I don't know how I would like it."

WOMEN OPPOSED TO HAVING VOTE

Federation of Clubs Elects President Opposed to Suffrage; Choose Other Officers

SAN FRANCISCO, July 5.—By electing Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker of Texas as their president, the delegates to the eleventh biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's clubs are today on record as opposing the adoption of woman's suffrage by the federation.

Mrs. Pennybacker was opposed by Mrs. Philip Carpenter of New York, who had come out flatly in favor of a radical suffrage policy.

Mrs. Pennybacker declared during the campaign that the time was not ripe to make suffrage an issue before the federation. The vote was: Mrs. Pennybacker, 556; Mrs. Carpenter, 255.

The following officers were elected unanimously: First vice president, Mrs. L. L. Blankenberg, Philadelphia; second vice president, Mrs. Samuel E. Sneath, Tipton, Ohio; recording secretary, Mrs. Harry L. Keefe, Waltham, Neb.; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Eugene Reilly, Charlotte, N. C.; treasurer, Mrs. John Threadgill, Oklahoma City, Okla.; auditor, Mrs. Charles Howard McMahon, Salt Lake, Utah.

The following directors were elected from a field of eleven candidates: Mrs. Grace Julian Clark, Indiana; Mrs. Frances D. Everett, Highland Park, Ill.; Mrs. J. Creighton Mathews, New Orleans; Mrs. William E. Andrews, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Lucy White Williams, Lapeer, Mich.; Mrs. Frank White, Valley City, N. D.; Mrs. A. S. Christy, Montana; Mrs. William A. Harper, Seattle, Wash.

CHEERING CROWDS GREET COMMONER

Bryan Loudly Applauded for His Fight in Baltimore by Citizens of Home Town

APPROVE OF HIS SWITCH

When He Explains Why He Left Clark, Constituents Applaud His Independence

LINCOLN, Neb., July 5.—W. J. Bryan's home-coming from Baltimore today was more than a greeting—it was an ovation. Welcomed at the railway station by a band, and a thousand neighbors, the Commoner was escorted in an automobile to the business district where he spoke to an audience that filled the street from curb to curb. For half an hour or more, the distinguished Nebraskan discussed the Baltimore convention, predicting the triumphant election of Gov. Wilson in November and praising the party for its platform, and firm stand for progressive democratic principles.

Bryan Explains

"If I owe any explanation as to my change from Mr. Clark to Mr. Wilson," Bryan said, "it is to my constituents who sent me to Baltimore to represent them. This is a Nebraska affair and this is why I am saying here that I transferred my vote to Mr. Wilson because I became convinced that Mr. Clark could not lead a winning fight on behalf of progressive principles. Mr. Clark's managers chose to ally themselves against the progressive sentiment in the selection of a temporary chairman. I was making the fight for progressive principles and could not retreat. The first skirmish went against us, but it really brought the victory."

"It was a fortunate thing that I was defeated," Bryan continued. "Telegrams of protest began to pour in upon the convention from folks at home."

Making reference to this flow of progressive influence upon the convention as coming from a great faucet, Bryan said: "If I deserve any credit it is for knowing where the faucet was located, and when to turn it on, and on estimating more accurately the height of the stand-pipe."

Bryan declared that he felt some hesitancy in laying aside the letter of the Nebraska instructions to obey the spirit, "but no general," he said, "is worthy of position who does not disobey orders, when exigencies arise on the field of battle."

Crowd Cheers Switch

This statement was cheered by the crowd, one hearer shouting: "You did absolutely right. Nebraska is satisfied."

"In former years," Bryan continued, "I have been handicapped by the charge that I was seeking the presidency to gratify personal ambitions. I am happy today over the knowledge that Governor Wilson is the candidate, and that I am not. I can go before the people and make the fight for progressive principles and convince them that I am actuated by no thought of self. I hope to convince my friends as well as my critics, when the campaign is ended that I have fought harder for Governor Wilson than I ever fought for myself."

Mr. Bryan left this afternoon for Kansas. He will tend his services to the national committee and take the stump in every state in event the new committee requests.

BUT FEW HURT HERE ON FOURTH

No One Seriously Injured In Explosion; Girl's Complexion Is Scorched

All accident records for the Fourth of July in La Crosse were broken yesterday, but three being reported. None were seriously injured. Aloysia Puente, age 12 years, Eighteenth and La Crosse streets, received the greatest injuries, being badly burned about the face, arms and shoulders as a result of the explosion of a sack of gun powder containing nearly a pound. Another lad had lighted a fire cracker which he threw near the sack. A spark from the cracker alighted in the powder causing it to explode, while the child was standing nearby.

Miss Louise Juen, age eighteen, was also burned about the face while shooting off fireworks last night. She had lighted the fuse of a flower pot and believed that it had burned out. Upon approaching it, flames burst forth burning her face.

Rumors to the effect that Fred Haller, 601 South Third street, had been injured by holding a fire cracker in his hand while it exploded, were denied at his home today.

DEATH LIST IS AT FORTY-ONE TODAY

Twenty-two of Victims in Lackawanna Wreck Still Unidentified by Mutation.

DEAD ROBBED AFTER CRASH

Bodies Lying in Field After the Smash Are Looted; Blame Put on Engineer

CORNING, N. Y., July 5.—With twenty-two bodies remaining unidentified and with many of the injured in an extremely dangerous condition, the horror of yesterday's rear end collision on the Lackawanna railroad continues to grow. Many of the bodies whose identity has not been learned will probably never be recognized so terribly mutilated are they. The death list today was forty-one. In addition Nellie Sander of Newark, N. J., and James Griffith were declared by doctors to be dying, and six others were not expected to recover.

Worst on Road

The wreck was the worst in the history of the road, whose boast previously was that only two passengers had been killed on it since 1900. The road officials blame Engineer Schroeder. He was in the cab of train No. 11, which crashed through the standing Buffalo limited. The company officials say the semaphore a mile distant was at "Danger," that the block in which the limited was stalled was also set against No. 11 and that a flagman from the passenger tried to stop the on-coming train half a mile from the accident. The engineer says that the distant signal was at "Clear" and that he saw no flagman. He insists that the fog which had come in from the Chemung river was so dense that it was almost impossible to see the track a train's length ahead.

Dead Are Robbed

The police admitted today that bodies of the dead and dying were robbed as they lay in the open fields beside the tracks. Coroner Smith has detailed fifteen special deputies to aid Deputy Sheriff Sullivan in protecting the property of the victims which was picked up from the wreckage and stored near the temporary morgue.

The story of the wreck, like others which have recently preceded it, was one of steel cars as havens of refuge and wooden cars as death traps. None of the dead were in the steel cars. The great solid train cut through the wooden day coach and Pullman like a knife through cheese, but the steel Pullman sleepers and the steel day coaches held fast. They were bent out of shape with the terrific force of the blow, but they held intact and their occupants were injured, not killed.

Blame Engineer

The Lackawanna railway gave out today a supplementary statement on yesterday's fatal wreck at Corning in which it again declared that neglect on the part of the engineer who disregarded danger signals was the sole cause. The statement says: "Engineer William Schroeder of Elmira, who was the engineer of the express train No. 9, near Corning, N. Y., was 54 years of age, and had been on this particular run ever since it was established, twenty-three years ago, and had a most excellent record."

"An official investigation on the ground disclosed that Engineer Schroeder of the express train which ran into train No. 9, passed signal 2,773, which stood at 'Caution,' indicating clearly that train No. 9 was in the next block ahead and requiring him to reduce speed, and hold his train under control. This he did not do, but ran through the block at full speed and ran by the home signal which stood at 'Danger' 4,500 feet beyond the first signal. Train No. 9 was standing 450 feet beyond the danger signal which was disregarded."

WEATHER

For La Crosse and vicinity: Unsettled weather with probably showers tonight or Saturday.

For Wisconsin and Iowa: Generally fair and continued warm tonight and Saturday.

For Minnesota: Unsettled weather with probably showers tonight or Saturday; cooler northwest portion tonight.

The northwestern low will cause unsettled weather in this section tonight and Saturday with continued high temperature and probably showers.

SECURE THE WELL BOUNDED EDUCATION

Do not specialize too early. This is advice to the young student which Dean Cooley of the engineering department of the University of Michigan believes to be good. In other words if you propose to follow engineering as a profession do not confine your attention in your early education to engineering subjects, or those naturally leading into engineering. The man who as a boy devoted himself to this will not necessarily make the biggest success as an engineer. Mr. Cooley says:

"There seems to be a very general impression that the so-called vocational studies in the high school are of prime importance, particularly as relates to engineering. In the department of engineering it is almost the universal opinion that too much importance is attached to manual training and drawing in the preparatory schools, and for years Greek and Latin have been accepted as suitable preparation for students of engineering; not only accepted, but believed to be better preparation than some other things offered.

"It may surprise a number of my friends to learn that, in my opinion, manual training and drawing, as taught in the preparatory schools, are far more important to the student who contemplates pursuing a literary or classical course in the university than to those who will study engineering.

"The literary or classical student has little or no opportunity in the university or in after life to learn anything about manual training or drawing, and the little he gets in the public schools is all that he ever has. The engineer, on the contrary, spends his whole life in connection with manual training and drawing, and has little or no opportunity to acquire the culture brought by the study of literary subjects or of Latin or Greek."

What this means is that it is the rounded man who is most likely to make a good success of whatever he goes into. The aim of education should be not to develop one line but all lines. A man should not be drilled on engineering alone from boyhood up, for into successful engineering a great many other things, of the so-called culture nature, enter in ways so subtle as not to be ordinarily recognized. On the other hand if a man is going to devote his life to study Greek he should be given in early life a little more manual training, for in this way will his sympathies, his understanding and his mental scope be broadened. Coming from the head of one of the leading engineering schools of the country, who has had unusual opportunities for observing the effect of various kinds of preliminary training on the pupils, the statement of Dean Cooley is significant. Do not slight the element of variety of educational matters.

ARE YOUR CHILDREN IN SCHOOL CENSUS?

Citizens who have not been interviewed by the canvassers for the school census on or before July 13 are requested to call up L. L. Brown, city hall, who has charge of the work. Remember that if you have a child of school age who is not recorded in the list the omission costs the city $2.60, the amount paid cities by the state for each child so recorded. To get this record is the sole purpose of the canvass, and to give the information costs parents absolutely nothing.

If Canada wants to do us a good turn, it will surrender the old gun captured by the English at Bunker Hill in 1776. Visitors to Quebec have seen it resting on the citadel.
Unless Canada fears the weapon will be turned against Windsor, the request of the Massachusetts historical society will be granted.

The First congressional district in Indiana has an annual rat day. It is left largely to conjecture why the rat killing district has the same boundaries as the congressional district.

However, in the course of the day, over 6,000 rats were killed in the aforesaid district.

Not a Heavenly Messenger

A tall, thin man, with one eye, made his way into the office of Amos
K. Klam, the prosperous banker.
"Let me have $10,000 and I will repay you when you need it most," stated the visitor.

With a sigh of benevolent Amos
K. Klam handed over the money.
Ten years later Amos K. Klam was in distress. He needed just $10,- 000 to save him from disgrace.

A tall, thin man, with one eye, appeared.

"You are Amos K. Klam?" said the visitor.

"Yes, yes, exclaimed the banker.
"Heaven has sent you."

"Correct," said the visitor, as he drew forth a great wallet. "I have here a work that will interest you. It is the history of the world in sixty-nine volumes—profusely illustrated—bound in morocco—edited by Prof. Highbrow. Our terms—"

But Amos K. Klam had fainted.—

Little and Big Religion

This story comes from Australia, where all conversation turns eventually to matters educational, because every parent is painfully anxious that his sons shall pass the standard which will free them from certain years of military service. A visitor was conversing with his host's small son, and opened, as a matter of course, with the words, "Do you go to school now?"

"Yes."

"And what do you learn? Reading, writing, sums?"

"Oh, yes, and I learn religion, too."

"Religion?"

"Yes, I learn the little religion, which teaches that we all come from Adam. But my elder brother is in a higher class; he learns the big religion, and that teaches that we all come from monkeys."—Manchester

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

He's Sitting Tight
Three years have passed since first
I came
To lay full siege to Betty's heart;
But Betty's busy chasing fame—
She's bound to reach the top in art.
Since art is not my forte 'tis true
The other fellows plume her wings;
Yet I sit tight—and here's my cue:
Each year she's doing different things!

Two years ago, through paint and oil
A touseled dauber led the way;
The year before, with fingered toil
Long-haired musicians ruled the day;
Last year a literary chap Helped her get most outrageous stings;
I'm sitting tight—I think mayhap
She soon will reach the end of things!

With clinking tools this year she's spent—
With sculptors she eats marble dust;
Next year—what will the next present?

She's nearing now the end, I trust.
Even though she's not, I will not fret.
No matter what the future brings
I'll just sit tight and win her yet—
Some day she'll chuck artistic things!

Took an Unkind Advantage Down in Oklahoma they have a baseball association called the Oklahoma State league. During one of their games at Tulsa recently an old man went to the park, paid his money and took a seat on the bleachers.
He sat with a look of disgust on his face while the pitcher "fanned" the visitors in one, two, three order.

How do you like the game, uncle?" asked a fan who sat next to him.

"It's all right, I reckon," said the old man, "but they ought to get another man to throw them balls. That there man can't throw a ball so's the other boys can hit it."—Kansas City Star.

Cruel Realism

John G. Johnson, the famous lawyer and no less famous art expert, was talking at a dinner in Philadelphia about some of Sargent's cruelly realistic portraits.

"Sargent once painted a Philadelphia woman," Mr. Johnson said,
"and when the work was finished the lady's coachman called for it."

DETROIT TWIRLER SLUMPS WITH TEAM

Edgar Willett.

Edgar Willett, the Detroit twirler who so often has pitched the Tigers to brilliant victory, is going down with his club. A glance at the pitching averages is enough to convince anyone of that. Willett is led by a score or so of American league pitchers. The entire team seems to have lost heart, and has assumed a "don't care" attitude which threatens to keep the Detroit boys in the second division "the remainder of the season."

FOR THE NECK AND SHOULDERS

A Free Prescription that Instantly
Removes Blemishes, Tan Freckles,
and the Wrinkles and Marks
Left by High Collars

The Dutch neck and the evening gown too often expose the discolora-tions and blemishes of high collars or the effects of tan and freckles. It is easy to overcome these conditions and make the neck beautiful and white and soft and smooth—to remove, in other words, every blemish and to make the Dutch collar as attractive as it is comfortable. This prescription can also be used on the shoulders, and it is marvelously effective to beautify the hands and arms.

If you want to try it go to your druggist, get an empty two-ounce bottle, also a one ounce bottle of Kulux Compound. Pour the entire bottle of Kulux into the two ounce bottle, add quarter of an ounce of witch hazel, then fill with water.
Prepare this at your own home and then you know what you have. One application will astonish you. It is deliciously cool and soothing and is not affected by perspiration. It will not rub off.

If you put it on one hand only,
or on one side of the neck, and note the difference you will see the wonderful change it makes instantly. The results are permanent, and continued use of this prescription will result in a skin as soft and smooth as a child's, a skin from which redness and roughness and freckles have been entirely removed.

The MAN in the BROWN DERBY by WELLS HASTINGS Author of The Professor's Mystery Copyright, 1911, by Bobbs-Merrill Co.

"I don't know now what did happen," she said. "I thought it was you. Your young lady had gone upstairs for some time, and left me to put paper on the closet shelves.
While I was working in there, some one slammed the door behind me and locked it. It frightened me nearly out of my senses, and then I thought as perhaps you were one of those young cut-ups, and had done it for a joke."

"Did you hear any noise in the house?" I asked her.

"No, I heard nothing at all," she replied dryly. "I've been making all the noise myself I could hear at one time. Why?" she added. "Has anything happened?"

I saw she had no information for me and decided against letting her know of Nancy's disappearance.

"No," I stammered, "nothing has happened. I really must apologize," I blundered on, feeling that I was lying clumsily, "but I am afraid that I really did shut the door. You see, I'm very absent-minded. I don't remember doing it, but I suppose I must have. We had a closet at home very much like this, and we had to keep continually locking it to keep the cat out. I must have just shut the door and turned the key from force of habit, when I went through the kitchen; but I give you my word of honor, Mrs. Blake, that I didn't see you."

Clumsy as the falsehood was, it struck a fortunate chord.

"That's just like my father used to be," she said, "long about when he was ninety. He was so absent-minded, he'd go up-stairs to change his shoes and go to bed right in the middle of the day." She launched into a long series of her father's peculiar and absent-minded doings, which in my agony I had to strive to listen to quietly; for I was very anxious to get her out of the house, suspecting nothing, a feat which I finally accomplished by saying that Nancy was tired out and resting and that she wanted Mrs. Blake to be home in time to cook her own supper. Then I mounted the stairs again to Nancy's room. The late sun came levelly through the windows, lighting its farthest corner. One chair lay on its side, lace window curtains were disarranged, and a curtain rod had been ripped away with a force that had broken its odd-fashioned hook. That was all.
But that all was enough. Nancy had not gone of her own free will, and with murder in my heart I laughed aloud in the silent room.

This, then, was the errand of the midnight prowler, this the accomplished aim of the man, for he must have been the same, who had inquired for us at the county clerk's office. Who he was, whether an agent of Ephraim Bond's or not, whether or not this was all part of the original plan, I could not know, and for the instant did not care. It was enough for me that Nancy was gone and that she had been taken roughly. I knew that I should find her again, if I had to kill some one to do it; find her and bring her home. The next time this man came under my hands he should not escape so easily.

But on Nancy's bureau lay something white, a mocking sheet of paper that looked up at me. I read:

"I have changed my mind, luckily in time for us both. You must forgive me, but I find that I am unable to overcome an innate repugnance of physical disfigurement. I did not wish the pain of seeing you again, which, I am sure, you will see would have been a pain for us both, and so I am taking the afternoon train for Philadelphia. There I shall spend the night with friends, and in the morning take up the rest of the journey home. Forgive me and believe me, I am sorry. You are not to try to follow. That is absolutely final.

"NANCY BOND."

Even as I read it, I knew the thing was a lie. I had never seen her writing; but whether this letter was forged or whether she had written it herself, under the necessity of some compulsion, I could not decide; already, I was too sure of her to believe it. Whatever she might do, or had done, she would certainly never have made my hands the excuse for running away, nor indeed would she have run away at all.

The thing was outside the possibility of her moral courage. If, in my absence, she had decided for any reason that our proposed marriage was wrong, I was sure she would have waited for me, and told me that reason with gentle bravado.

I folded the note and put it in my pocket, then, with a sudden tardy thought, cursed myself furiously and aloud, for I remembered the galloping horse that had so nearly run me down, the swaying buggy, the lashing, cruel whip; Nancy must have passed me almost at our very gates, and I had stood gaping in the road and wondering watched her out of sight. What a hopeless fool I had been, and even now the minutes were flying. Again I found myself out upon the open road, running this time tirelessly and with a new-found strength. Evening had fallen, and here and there I passed tollers returning home. One or two called after me, but I kept steady-fastly on my way until the town lights began to twinkle before me.
Then, here and there, I stopped to make inquiries, fearing now at many turnings to lose the trail of him whom I pursued.

A lathered, foundered horse attracts attention anywhere, and I easily traced it to the heart of the town itself. My last informant vaguely thought it had gone through, but after that I absolutely lost track. It might have been

GAS KILLS THREE
BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 5. —
The coroner today ordered a thorough inquiry into the deaths by gas of Charles B. Read, secretary of the D. M. Read company; John Ruhl, his car taker, and his wife, Read's he failed to return Mrs. Ruhl went out and found him overcome. She, too, was asphyxiated and when Read went to ascertain why the man and wife did not come back, he, too, was

There were many prominent women in attendance at the Democratic convention. Mrs. Taft, the wife of in her hearing which weren't exactly complimentary to Mr. Taft. Probably she expected that. Mrs. Taft attended the convention as the guest of Mrs. Norman E. Mack, wife of the chairman of the Democratic national committee. Others in the party were Mrs. Hugh Wallace, and Mrs. David R. Francis, wife of the Missouri governor.

AYLWARD WANTS GOVERNORSHIP

MILWAUKEE, July 5.—There will be a hot fight in the democratic state convention when it meets next Thursday to adopt a platform and nominate a state ticket over the nominee for governor.

This was assured some time ago. It is made more certain by advices which come from Baltimore to the effect that John A. Aylward has reconsidered his previous announcement that he would not be a candidate for governor, and will enter the lists as a candidate for the nomination.

This will be a big surprise to democrats throughout the state. It was supposed that Mr. Aylward would support A. J. Schmitz' candidacy, as they had been working together for the last few months in securing a Wilson delegation from Wisconsin. It will renew the factional fight in the party which has continued for several years.

CONSTITUTION TOO HARD TO CHANGE

MADISON, Wis., July 5.—"The greatest issue in America today is the plan to amend the federal constitution so that it can be changed with ease and facility," said Dr. Charles McCarthy, chief of the legislative reference library, today. He asserted that all other issues are subsidiary until this has been settled. It is so difficult to change the constitution under its present form, he said, that the courts in making their decisions from precedent are able to destroy many of the reform laws demanded by the people. When the constitution is so amended so as to make it possible to change it easily, he said, the greatest achievement for conserving the people's rights will have been accomplished.

U. S. ATHLETES HAVE A SANE FOURTH

STOCKHOLM, July 5.—A social near riot today was narrowly averted on the American training ship Finland, when it was learned that President Thompson, the millionaire head of the American Olympic team, had planned an exclusive Fourth of July dinner aboard the vessel, to which none of the athletes was invited. Trouble finally was prevented by Thompson who transferred his dinner to a private hotel.

The Americans had no fireworks with which to celebrate Independence Day and were forced by necessity to observe a "sane Fourth," but they gave a reception on the Finland in the afternoon commemorating their nation's birth with lemonade and hundreds of guests, including the members of other teams, swarmed over the side of the liner.

U. S. LAUNDRY FOR NOTES IS UNIQUE

Government Has a Scheme Machine which Makes Old Bank-notes Like New

WASHES FOR THE POWERS

Samples of Work Have Been Sent to European Nations and Caused Wonder

WASHINGTON, July 5.—Without a counterpart in the world is a laundry machine in the bureau of engraving and printing, the plant where the government turns out the national supply of currency. A great item of expense has been the production of new bills to take the place of crumpled, worn and germ-laden paper money, sent in for redemption.

It has had sufficient use to prove its success in taking the wrinkles and dirt out of badly used currency. Two young ladies have been placed in charge of the laundry. One feeds the soiled money to one end of the machine and the other stacks the clean, crisp, laundered notes when they come through.

Before the machine had been placed in practical service the claims made for it attracted the attention of government officials in several European countries. They sent over examples of much abused currency and were delighted in the condition in which it was returned to them.

Hundreds of people have seen the machine in action. Many of those who laughed at the inventor and others associated with him in his effort to put such a machine on the market, are today loud in their praises for the wonderful piece of machinery. It is estimated that in eight hours between 30,000 and 35,000 old bills can be laundered.

National bank presidents have been asked to sign notes from their institutions in strong indelible ink, so that when such bills are put through the laundry the ink will not fade. As it is today, bank presidents sign notes with any kind of ink, from plain polk berry juice up to ordinary five cent ink. These fade in the laundry machine.

Burgess Smith, a native of Macon, Ga., but for the 8 past years a scientist at the bureau of engraving and printing, is the designer of the new machine. He is rather timid in regard to accepting the praise due to him, and it was only after much questioning that his friends could establish the fact that he was the inventor. Samuel Eider, of Philadelphia, for 14 years a machinist at the bureau, followed the designs of Mr. Smith and made the machine. They were laughed at but now they are enjoying together the victory they have won.

WISCONSIN NEWS

PROHIBITIONIST WANTS THIRD PARTY

MADISON, Wis., July 5.—"A third party cannot be founded on a bolt. That is my reason for believing that the Roosevelt party will fail. But men like Bryan and La Follette must get together to start a party before this country gets any reforms worth speaking of."

This view was expressed here by Eugene W. Chafin, prohibition presidential nominee four years ago. In his lecture tours in the last few years he said he has found an ever increasing demand for a real reform third party.

"There must be a third party," he said. "It will come ultimately. It will put all of the bad men in one party and they will never be able to carry a single election. As slavery once held the balance of power in both parties, so today Wall street holds the balance of power. Graft and evil have no political convictions. And no political party is any better than the bad men in it, whose votes either party thinks it must have to carry the election."

SCHOOL LIBRARIES RECEIVE BOOKS

MADISON, Wis., July 5.—Approximately 100,000 volumes were added to the school libraries of the state during the two years just closed, according to a statement prepared by O. S. Rice, state library clerk. His statement will be used as part of the exhibit of the National Educational association at Chicago this week.

"The school libraries of the state contain about 1,500,000 volumes, costing over $800,000," said Prof. Rice. "Additions are being made at the rate of over 100,000 volumes per year. In addition, approximately 1,000,000 books in the free public school libraries of the state are at the service of the schools. The high school libraries contain over 200,000 volumes."

School libraries are built up as a result of a tax of ten cents paid by the state for each child attending school in the district. The books are selected by the county superintendent from lists prepared by the state superintendent.

SHAH'S POTS AND PANS ARE GOLDEN

TEHERAN, July 5.—The shah's cutlery and kitchen utensils are worth $25,000,000 according to a committee of government experts appointed to make an inventory.

The committee's report shows that no other court, not even that of Spain, has such elaborate pots and pans as the Persian. They are all gold plated on the inside, and the plainest are of silver only. The kitchen salt and sugar canisters are of massive silver, but the spoons and forks, plates and dishes are of solid gold, while most of the knives have handles encrusted with precious stones.

RUSSIA HAS POLICY OF CONSERVATION

WASHINGTON, July 5.—An interesting story of the conservation of forests in Russia comes from Consul John H. Groat, stationed at Odessa. That the Russians, backward in many things, have long been foreseeing in the matter of timber supply is told by Groat, who says: "While the privately owned woodlands of Russia is being annually reduced in area, the extensive state forests, are but gradually being brought into use, and for a long time to come they will continue to be an important reserve timber supply for the world. These forests cover 937,000,000 acres, a proportion of which is well stocked. The increasing utilization of state forests is shown by increasing receipts from the sale of timber, which have risen from $9,486,300 in 1890 to $42,525,610 in 1911.

Charity seems to cover a multitude of sins, but most of them show through.

NEW BIJOU WILL START TOMORROW

Amusement House Has Been Entirely Remodeled and Enlarged for Its Reopening

Remodeled so that its own mother wouldn't recognize it, the new Bijou theater will tomorrow afternoon enter upon a new existence as a motion picture house. The Majestic theater company has spared no expense to make the popular old amusement house into a strictly up to the minute establishment, and in point of beauty and convenience it now ranks with the big vaudeville theater operated by the same firm.

The old front of the theater has been renovated and made over along the most approved artistic lines. The seats have been entirely renewed, and the seating capacity of the house much enlarged. Interior decorations and fixtures are also new, and a new projection screen of the latest pattern has been installed.

The class of service will be kept up to a high standard. Only licensed pictures of the most refined sort will be shown, and special attention to the tastes of children and their accommodation will be a predominant feature. The management asserts the house will be the coolest place in the city. Ten big electric fans will keep the air in constant motion, and the most modern type of ventilation systems has been installed.

Matinees will be given daily, starting at 3 o'clock and the continuous evening performance will begin at 7:30.

The Chilean government has decided to spend $12,775 during this year for a cooking department in some of the professional schools.

The Effects of Opiates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells which are likely to become permanent, causing imbecility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life. Nervous diseases, such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying powers are a result of dosing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unavoidable.

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly derided, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them willfully with narcotics.

Castoria contains no narcotics if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

DAN BEARD GIVES ADVICE TO SCOUT

National Boy Scout Commissioner Tells What to Look for on Hikes in the Woods

DEVELOPS SENSES, HE SAYS

Leader Says Boys Must Keep Eyes, Ears and Nose Always at Attention

Daniel Carter Beard, National Scout Commissioner of the Boy Scouts of America has given hints on scouting to the Boy Scouts of America telling them what they should be on the watch for in their hikes and how to scout for birds and animals in the woods. Here is his chat with the Boy Scouts of America:

Develop Senses

"One of the great things in the Boy Scout activities," says Beard, "is teaching and encouraging the Scouts to develop their five senses. Every boy thinks that he can hear, see, taste and smell, but it is only a few of us who have developed these senses to a normal degree. For instance, there are thousands of sounds all around us which we do not hear because we have not fixed our attention upon them, and there are thousands of scents which we do not smell because we have not been taught to notice the different odors unless they are so pungent and strong as to affect our personal comfort. To quote the Good Book, 'We all have eyes and we see not.'"

"It is the duty, however, of every Scout when he starts on a hike to keep his eyes, ears and nose at attention, to note not only the general contour of the country, the direction of a range of hills, the direction pursued by a stream, road, path or trail and its changes of direction, but also to note each bird, mammal, reptile or insect that he passes on the walk. A normal boy of twelve can see more than trained observer of twenty-five. He can, for instance, find more birds' nests, detect their presence quicker than an older person. This is because a boy of twelve comes nearer being a normal, natural human being than a person of more mature years who has dulled his perception by close application to books or business, which is really an artificial use for his mind and eyes."

Watch Directions

"When you start on your hike, look at your pocket compass and see the direction you propose to take. Note whether it is West, Northwest or southeast, and the prominent objects, such as lakes, forests, hills which are in the line of your march. Put your finger in your mouth and moisten it; hold it up and note by your compass the direction of the wind. Also note the kinds of clouds that are floating overhead. Note whether the crows are giving voice to their ordinary 'Caw Caw' or flying high overhead, giving voice to an occasional 'Quack.' All these things have a bearing upon the weather probabilities and if you will afterwards put down in your note just what happened in twelve hours after you will learn what the signs portended."

"In this way you can become an expert forecaster of the weather, a very necessary attribute for a camper or outdoor lad of any kind. Note the birds you see, identify them or make notes from which you may identify them later. In my animal book I have given directions from which any boy can make crude sketches of the birds he sees and accompanied with notes necessary for identification."

Don't Approach Nests

"Caution! Never approach a bird's nest that is upon the ground. You are unaware of the fact but there are bright eyes watching you while you are on your hike and noses trained to followed you like blood hounds. Weasels, mink, foxes and skunks frequently follow your trail and will discover the bird's nests on the ground and destroy them. I have had this happen dozens of times and before I discovered the cause I almost became superstitious because the second time I visited the nest on the ground I would find the nest and young eggs had been destroyed. Nests that are in trees you can examine but do not disturb them. Our birds are decreasing so rapidly that we cannot afford to lessen their number, and the Boy Scouts of America should stand for the protection of our native birds and mammals. Remember that they also are Americans. They were here before Columbus stumbled on our continent and we want to keep them here as long as the continent stands."

"Keep your eyes and ears open and good luck to you. Write to headquarters and tell us what you see, smell and hear."

Drinking Water With Food.

It is a trifle disconcerting to be told that when the thrifty housewife expends from 20 to 28 cents per pound for the best cuts of beef about 60 per cent of the sum is being paid for water. Yet such is the case, about 60 per cent of the bulk of uncooked beef or mutton being water. . . . The flesh of pigeons is about 70 per cent of water, that of fowls and ducks 65 per cent, while a really fat goose may have as little as 38 per cent of water in its composition. The flesh of fish varies considerably in the quantity of water contained, the figures ranging according to the kinds of fish, from 44 to 80 per cent.—Popular Mechanics.

2,000,000 KIDS AT WORK IN U. S.

One in Seven of All Children Ten to Fourteen Years Are Not in School

There are more than 6,000,000 illiterates in the United States, and one in seven of all children between 10 and 14 are not in school, according to the Child Labor Bulletin, a new quarterly review issued by the National Child Labor Committee. Twenty-nine states do not care whether children can even read and write when they permit them to go to work, and there are a million children today under the age of 16 years who are employed in the various industries of the country, in addition to another million in agriculture, only a part of whom are assisting their parents on the farm.

Shows Progress.

The first number of the bulletin is devoted to child labor and education, the subject of the Eighth Annual Conference on Child Labor, held in Louisville, but incidentally it shows how far the United States has progressed since the first child labor law was passed in Massachusetts in 1876. Thirty-nine state passed child labor laws since the organization of the National Child Labor Committee in 1904. The fourteenth birthday is now the lowest limit for work for children in the northern states, with the single exception of New Hampshire and in four southern states: Kentucky, Tennessee, Louisiana and Virginia. What is involved in the absence of adequate restriction is vividly expressed by P. P. Claxton, United States Commissioner of Education. "In the Carolinas I have seen children under ten years of age working their lives away in the mills. Their pale faces haunt me still. I saw little boys eight years old drinking black coffee at midnight to keep awake until the end of their shift at four or five o'clock in the morning. Then they went out of the hot, steaming, noisy mill into the cold air of the morn-

Remember Mothers.

"In four states: Ohio, Oklahoma, Illinois and Michigan," Florence Kelley says, "there is now provision made to lift the burden upon the widowed mother by giving her right and not as the dote of a private charity, an allowance out of public finances on condition that she stay in her home and keep her children at home and in school as the state requires." As Jean Gordon of New Orleans puts it on another page: "Certainly the mother does as much for the country in rearing her child-

Occupations dangerous to health or morals are singled out by some few states and forbidden to minors under sixteen or eighteen or twenty-one, as for example the night-messenger service is now regulated by special laws in New York and nine other states.

Means Racial Degeneracy.

Having noted progress the bulletin offers the following indictment of the child labor system, namely, that "child labor means racial degeneracy, the perpetuation of poverty, the enlargement of illiteracy, the disintegration of the family, the increase of crime, the lowering of the wagescale and the swelling of the army of the unemployed."

The National Child Labor Committee says it intends to issue the bulletin regularly because of the splendid results already secured through pamphlets. Other numbers will be devoted to one or another phase of the child labor problem, and will keep subscribers in touch with the progress of the fight against child labor and with the results of investigations.

Natural Dividing Line.

Nature herself has drawn a dividing line between what is appropriate for men and what for women. There is no question of superiority or inferiority.—Exchange.

SAN FRANCISCO — That the 900,000 club women throughout the United States should in the future address themselves particularly to international and industrial peace, regulation of the press and the drama, education, inspection of factories, and a closer watch on national legislation affecting social and civic life, was the sense of the convention of the Federation of Woman's clubs, in session in this city.

The federation went on record as in favor of teaching personal and sex hygiene in normal and public schools. Among the prominent club women who delivered addresses were: Mrs. Josiah E. Cowles, of Los Angeles, national vice president of the federation; Mrs. E. G. Dennison, of San Francisco; Mrs. Frank Shiek, of Wyoming, national secretary, and Prof. Mary L. Sanford, of the University of Minnesota. The latter speaker talked on moral power in the school room. She referred to the danger attending a liberal education, of confounding liberty with license, and the influence of unmoral instructions.

JOHNSON IS GIVEN DECISION IN BOUT

Police Stop Scrap in Ninth and Smith Calls the Big Black the Winner

FLYNN BUTTED WITH HEAD

RINGSIDE, LAS VEGAS, N. M., July 5.

Jim Flynn's butting tactics brought the captain of the state police into the ring in the ninth round of the championship fight here yesterday afternoon, and Referee Ed W. Smith, after puzzling over matters a few seconds, gave Jack Johnson the decision. Smith said, however, that the fight was not won on a foul. Johnson during the last few seconds of the fight had held determinedly to Flynn's arm and shoulders and complained of being baffled in his attempts to use his gloves because of the manner in which the fireman used his head.

Said Smith: "They both transgressed the rules. Johnson by holding and Flynn by butting, but Flynn was the greater offender. The decision was given to Johnson because he had the better of the fighting up to that time. They agreed fully a week ago that if there was any interference of any kind the man in the lead at the time the bout was stopped was to be declared the winner."

That Johnson had scored the most punches and had brought the most blood was something that could not be denied, but that he looked a winner at the time of the interference is a different matter. It was the opinion of the majority of the spectators that if Flynn could have kept his temper and fought cleanly he could have won Johnson down.

Round 1

"Will you shake hands, Jack?"

Johnson turned his head to the spectators and hardly noticed his white antagonist. Flynn banged away at the stomach but this time Johnson covered up and shot four lefts to the face in quick succession, varying it with a left uppercut to the jaw. Flynn, at close range, put half a dozen punches on the stomach but Johnson only smiled and again made no apparent attempt to protect himself. Johnson then aroused the crowd to merriment by releasing Flynn's hold and clapping his own gloves together like a happy school girl.

Johnson landed fully a dozen rapid-fire rights and lefts to the fireman's face, and at the same time placed himself in a position to withstand Flynn's butting ways. "Wait a minute," cried the champion to a spectator who had shouted for him to end it. Flynn beat profusely from the nose as Johnson beat a healthy

Flynn cut short a remark of Johnson's by twice hooking his right to the jaw. This nettled the black and he cut loose with short arm uppercuts to the jaw. Johnson bled slightly from the mouth as he emerged from a midget mixup, but Flynn spat blood in a stream as the champion cut his mouth with a volley of right and lefts.

Flynn rushed in close and was met with the customary rain of right and left uppercuts to the face. At that it seemed as if the champion was holding himself in check.

He shook Flynn with a few stomach taps, scarcely trying to protect his body from Flynn's attacks. Johnson constantly shoved out his stomach and invited him to blaze away, which convulsed the spectators.

Johnson turned his head to the spectators and hardly noticed his white antagonist. Flynn banged away at the stomach but this time Johnson covered up and shot four lefts to the face in quick succession, varying it with a left uppercut to the jaw. Flynn, at close range, put half a dozen punches on the stomach but Johnson only smiled and again made no apparent attempt to protect himself. Johnson then aroused the crowd to merriment by releasing Flynn's hold and clapping his own gloves together like a happy school girl.

Johnson landed fully a dozen rapid-fire rights and lefts to the fireman's face, and at the same time placed himself in a position to withstand Flynn's butting ways. "Wait a minute," cried the champion to a spectator who had shouted for him to end it. Flynn beat profusely from the nose as Johnson beat a healthy query Flynn as he opened the battle by rushing into a clinch. "No," retorted the black.

QUERY: HAS THE WASHINGTON TEAM ENOUGH CLASS TO WIN CHAMPIONSHIP?

Walter Johnson and Bob Groom.

Can the Washington team of the American league keep the pace it has set during the past few weeks? If so, the pennant may at last go to the capital city. Griffith is a wonderful manager and Walter Johnson is a wonderful pitcher. These are the best assets of the club. Bob Groom has been successful in the twirling department, also; Hughes and Cashon are just fair. It is in the infield that the Nationals are weak. In the outfield and catching departments they have not the strength of the Athletics. Take the team all in all, it appears hardly strong enough to stand the wear and tear of a crucial campaign.

GOTCH EASILY KEEPS CHAMPIONSHIP TITLE

CHICAGO, July 5.—Frank Gotch, the Iowa farmer, today remained the champion of all champion wrestlers, although wrestling fans today declared that he was in no danger of losing his title to Joe Smekal, the Bohemian champion. The match did not contain an exciting moment for the 8,000 crowd that packed the Coliseum. All during the time that Gotch was arranging the two straight falls, he kept inquiring of the men at the press tables about the progress of the Johnson-Flynn fight.

YALE ATHLETICS PAY

NEW YORK, July 5.—Yale made $15,054 on athletics for the past year. The track team brought in $2,864 and expended $12,741. Baseball cost $30,511, while the crews were $16,810 behind. It cost $45,751 to run the football team and it earned $66,186. The total receipts for the year were $118,147.

Brennan, Philly pitcher, hit a homer, Jawn Titus poled a three bagger. Zimmerman slugged Slim Sallee for three safeties.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

The Brooklyn and the Tigers disregarded orders for a safe and sane Fourth. There is nothing sane for a double victory of the Dodgers over the Giants nor anything safe. Wait until the Giants—but, never mind.

Mullen of the Tigers pitched a no-hit, no-run game against the Browns, not only that but he added insult by cracking out three hits of his own. Ty Cobb was up seven times in two games. Five singles, a home run, three stolen bases, and some other things too numerous to mention were his portion.

Joe Wood, Red Sox hurler, hits about once in three years. He smashed two doubles trying to win his own game from the Athletics.

GEHRING WINS

CLEVELAND, O., July 5.—By winning in straight falls, Henry Gehring of Cleveland, strengthened his hold on the world's middleweight wrestling championship when he defeated Robert Berry, champion of England. Berry put up a splendid defense in the match here last night, several times breaking toe holds but he was outclassed by Gehring.

Chicago Grain Letter
CHICAGO, July 5.—Trade in the wheat today was influenced by the continuation of the cool wet weather over the spring wheat country, and prices were considerably lower. Liverpool reported prices lower at noon. The Modern Miller crop outlook said: "Where threshing of soft winter wheat is under way, reports are conflicting. Some are of full yields and others say the berry is thin, and that part of the grain is not fit for milling. Rains have interfered with the harvest in some localities and east of the Mississippi."

Local sentiment in the corn market was bearish. Weather over the holiday has been in the deal.
Oats prices moved downward in sympathy with the other grains.
Provisions were weak.

Governor Wilson Says He Has Not Decided Upon Head of National Committee

W'ADOO FOR TREASURER

Body Will Meet to Plan Campaign in Chicago July 15, Is Announcement

SEA GIRT, N. J., July 5.—That his mind is still open as to who shall be chairman of the democratic national committee, was the positive declaration of Governor Wilson today. The governor said that he will listen to all of the arguments on the subject and will then decide who he believes is best fitted for the position.

"In any matter as momentous as this," said the governor "I never make up my mind finally until just before I am to announce my decision. That will be the case in this case, and my choice will not be made public until announced at Chicago on July 15."

Sees McAdoo.

William G. McAdoo, who is prominently mentioned for the treasurer-ship of the coming campaign, was closeted with Wilson for several hours today. Neither McAdoo or Wilson would discuss the topic of conversation, although the governor said that it was not the treasurer-ship.

Joseph Daniels, national committeeman from North Carolina, and Robert Huddspeth, committeeman from New Jersey, both of whom have been suggested for the chairmanship of the national committee, chatted with the governor during the morning. They said they had merely called to pay their respects.

E. F. Grosscup, chairman of the democratic state committee of New Jersey, called on Gov. Wilson and asked him to invite James Smith, Jr., and James Nugent, the Essex county leaders, who have bitterly opposed the governor, to visit Sea Girt with the other members of the state delegation. The visit is to be made next Monday and Wilson said he hoped that both men would come.

EXPECTS JAMES.

Governor Wilson was up early today, expecting to receive at the "Little White House" Ollie James of Kentucky, permanent chairman of the Baltimore convention, and Senator O'Gorman, of New York. James sent word to the governor that he would come here today to make final arrangements for the visit if the official notification committee. The governor said that he had decided not to issue any formal letter of acceptance but to make his speech to the country in such a way as to fully cover the situation.

The Congress hotel of Chicago has been selected as the place and July 15 as the time for the official meeting of the national committee to plan the campaign.

TORPEDO EXPLODES IN MOUTH

Appleton Man Mistakes Torpedo for Candy; Cannot Recover from Injuries

OSHKOSH, Wis., July 5.—While mixing potash and sulphur, preparing explosive caps for the Fourth of July, Paul Hoeft, aged 23, Anton Hoeft, aged 18, and Erwin Pommerening, aged 14, of Milwaukee, were killed almost instantly.

Bodies Are Mangled. The explosion occurred about twelve feet from the Hoeft home and the side of the house was wrecked. The victims' bodies were badly mangled.

Paul Hoeft was to have been married on Aug. 14 to Miss Mary Spanbauer.

The Hoeft boys were brothers, and had planned to celebrate the fourth together. For several days they had been making purchases and planned to use the caps in their celebration. The force of the explosion shattered the windows of nearby houses, and neighbors rushed from their homes, fearful that some gigantic explosion had taken place.

Helping Make Mixture. The Pommerening boy was aiding the brothers in making the mixture and he was bending over them as they worked when the explosion occurred.

Miss Spanbauer fainted when she was informed of the tragic end of her fiancé.

Norris of Nebraska Proposes Improvement in National Election Law

WASHINGTON, July 5.—A nationwide presidential primary plan was proposed to the house today by Representative Norris of Nebraska as an antidote for "boss rule" in politics. The measure seeks to avoid conflict with the constitution by requiring that state legislatures must adopt its provisions as state laws, and that the plan is null unless ratified by twenty states.

The bill provides primaries to be held on the first Tuesday in May in election years and a national convention on the fourth Monday in June. At the primaries the voters would be called on to express a first and second choice for president, and to choose delegates.

If it appears that one candidate has a majority in the convention by reason of his victories in the states, that candidate becomes the choice of his party, without action by the convention. If not, the convention elects one, names a vice president and adopts a platform.

COPELAND PARK FILLED TO BRIM

THE PROGRAM IS COMPLETED

Something Going On All the Time; Fireworks Attracts a Huge Crowd

Thousands of people from La Crosse and surrounding villages and towns took part in the Fourth of July celebration at Copeland Park which was held under the auspices of the North Side Progressive league. From the opening of the program at noon with the flag raising exercises by the girls of the Copeland playground until the "good night" signal was flashed over the waters at the close of the fireworks, the people continued to throng the park, wandering from one center of amusement to another.

Despite the heavy rain which broke forth in the morning, causing a delay of two hours in the opening of the program, the committee in charge managed to complete the schedule which had been arranged.

At 1 o'clock, 100 girls of the Copeland park marched to the center of the grounds headed by a boy and girl representing Uncle Sam and Columbia and opened the flag raising exercises. The girl unfurled the flag which was raised by Uncle Sam. Following this the flag drill was given by the children after which patriotic songs were sung.

The beautiful display of fireworks in the evening was the best number on the program. Many expensive settings including an imitation of Niagara Falls, aerial rainbows, a summer storm and the octopus, which were procured at a large expense, kept the thousands of people lined up along the opposite shore, in an ecstasy of pleasure. The setting which closed the program, the words "good night," in large letters of all colors was one of the best settings of the program. The big flag setting, with which it had been planned to open the program, was destroyed by the morning rain.

Lights on Paths. Long rows of electric lights were strung along the paths of the park in front of the tents, and illuminated the park in the evening. Several church societies served lunch and dinners on the grounds.

Among the special features were the dancing pavilion, the wrestling show and the merry-go-round, and the speaking program which was as follows:

Dedication speech, Mayor John Dengler.

Fourth of July Oration, John H. Moss, Milwaukee.

Mr. Moss who was formerly president of the Milwaukee Business Men's association, proved to be an excellent speaker, holding the attention of his audience at all times.

Other numbers on the program were:

Drill by Onalaska Boy Scouts; Boys' sack races; girls' race under ten years; boys' three-legged race; girls' race under 16 years; fat man's race; ladies peanut race; midgits race, under 4 feet 10 inches; 100 yard race, free-for-all; Walking of greased pole over the water; boys' swimming race.

Parade. About sixty floats representing business firms of La Crosse, took part in the parade which formed at the market square at 10 o'clock and after marching through the business streets of the south side, marched to Copeland Park. The parade was somewhat marred by the sudden burst of rain which overtook the advance section as it reached the causeway, drenching a large number who took part, including the children of the Copeland playground who were in three large open wagons.

Probably the most attractive feature of the parade was the Obrecht band which led the second division of the parade. Two other bands also took part in the parade.

The motorboat race between Bob Henry and Mr. Blanchard won by the former, was a fine event and the boats were close together up to the finish. A large crowd witnessed the race from the shore and a cheer went up as the speedy craft went along the course in an even race.

The course pursued by the power boats was from bridge to bridge in front of the park and both men managed the crafts in good style. Excellent time was made in this event and a large crowd was lined up along the shore watching the progress of the two motorboats.

Another event which proved interesting was the rowing race in which Jim Squires was the victor. The contestants ran a good race, the two boat races being interesting to many people.

After having rain interfere with their scheduled games twice the Nelson Clothing company and the Viroqua baseball clubs finally got together.

"I have been so wrapped up in Mr. Wilson's prospects," she told the reporter, "that I have thought of little else. I don't know how I would like it."

WOMEN OPPOSED TO HAVING VOTE

SAN FRANCISCO, July 5.—By electing Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker of Texas as their president, the delegates to the eleventh biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's clubs are today on record as opposing the adoption of woman's suffrage by the federation.

Mrs. Pennybacker was opposed by Mrs. Philip Carpenter of New York, who had come out flatly in favor of a radical suffrage policy.

Mrs. Pennybacker declared during the campaign that the time was not ripe to make suffrage an issue before the federation. The vote was: Mrs. Pennybacker, 556; Mrs. Carpenter, 255.

Creighton Mathews, New Orleans; Mrs. William E. Andrews, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Lucy White Williams, Lapeer, Mich.; Mrs. Frank White, Valley City, N. D.; Mrs. A. S. Christy, Montana; Mrs. William A. Harper, Seattle, Wash.

HADLEY STICKS TO REPUBLICANS

Admits Party Is No Longer Agency of Good Government, but Won't Join T. R.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 5.—That the republican party has ceased to be a useful agency of good government, but that he has no intention of taking any part in the formation of a third party was the declaration of Governor Herbert S. Hadley in a formal statement issued here today.

"I have nothing to add to, or take from, what I said in the Chicago convention," the statement says. "I have no intention of taking part in the formation of a third party, as I believe I can render more useful public service by continuing as a member of the republican party. I am willing to concede that the republican party has ceased to be an agency of good government, I know, however, there is no occasion for a third party, in this state, as the republican party in the state is thoroughly progressive and will so continue."

Hadley continued that while he understands the Roosevelt supporters will place an electoral ticket on the ballot in the interests of the colonel's candidacy he will take no part in the preparation of such a ballot, and it will "be a subject for future consideration of those interested in the success of the party in the state as to whether the names of the republican state and local candidates can not be placed upon this ballot, as well as on the regular republican ticket."

TWO FIRES YESTERDAY

A fire was caused at the residence of Abraham Harrison, 327 North Sixth street yesterday by lightning. It is believed that lightning struck the telephone wire near the house. The fire was rapidly extinguished, little damage being done.

CHEERING CROWDS GREET COMMONER

Bryan Loudly Applauded for His Fight in Baltimore by Citizens of Home Town

When He Explains Why He Left Clark, Constituents Applaud His Independence

LINCOLN, Neb., July 5.—W. J. Bryan's home-coming from Baltimore today was more than a greeting—it was an ovation. Welcomed at the railway station by a band, and a thousand neighbors, the Commoner was escorted in an automobile to the business district where he spoke to an audience that filled the street from curb to curb. For half an hour or more, the distinguished Nebraskan discussed the Baltimore convention, predicting the triumphant election of Gov. Wilson in November and praising the party for its platform, and firm stand for progressive democratic principles.

Bryan Explains

"If I owe any explanation as to my change from Mr. Clark to Mr. Wilson," Bryan said, "it is to my constituents who sent me to Baltimore to represent them. This is a Nebraska affair and this is why I am saying here that I transferred my vote to Mr. Wilson because I became convinced that Mr. Clark could not lead a winning fight on behalf of progressive principles. Mr. Clark's managers chose to ally themselves against the progressive sentiment in the selection of a temporary chairman. I was making the fight for progressive principles and could not retreat. The first skirmish went against us, but it really brought the victory."

"It was a fortunate thing that I was defeated," Bryan continued. "Telegrams of protest began to pour in upon the convention from folks at home."

Making reference to this flow of progressive influence upon the convention as coming from a great faucet, Bryan said: "If I deserve any credit it is for knowing where the faucet was located, and when to turn it on, and on estimating more accurately the height of the stand-pipe."

Bryan declared that he felt some hesitancy in laying aside the letter of the Nebraska instructions to obey the spirit, "but no general," he said, "is worthy of position who does not disobey orders, when exigencies arise on the field of battle."

Crowd Cheers Switch. This statement was cheered by the crowd, one hearer shouting: "You did absolutely right. Nebraska is satisfied."

"In former years," Bryan continued, "I have been handicapped by the charge that I was seeking the presidency to gratify personal ambitions. I am happy today over the knowledge that Governor Wilson is the candidate, and that I am not. I can go before the people and make the fight for progressive principles and convince them that I am actually by no thought of self. I hope to convince my friends as well as my critics, when the campaign is ended that I have fought harder for Governor Wilson than I ever fought for myself."

Mr. Bryan left this afternoon for Kansas. He will tend his services to the national committee and take the stump in every state in event the new committee requests.

BUT FEW HURT HERE ON FOURTH

No One Seriously Injured In Explosion; Girl's Complexion Is Scorched

All accident records for the Fourth of July in La Crosse were broken yesterday, but three being reported. None were seriously injured. Aloysia Puente, age 12 years, Eighteenth and La Crosse streets, received the greatest injuries, being badly burned about the face, arms and shoulders as a result of the explosion of a sack of gun powder containing nearly a pound. Another lad had lighted a fire cracker which he threw near the sack. A spark from the cracker alighted in the powder causing it to explode, while the child was standing nearby.

Miss Louise Juen, age eighteen, was also burned about the face while shooting off fireworks last night. She had lighted the fuse of a flower pot and believed that it had burned out. Upon approaching it, flames burst forth burning her face.

Rumors to the effect that Fred Haller, 361 South Third street, had been injured by holding a fire cracker in his hand while it exploded, were denied at his home today.

DEATH LIST IS AT FORTY-ONE TODAY

Twenty-two of Victims in Lackawanna Wreck Still Unidentified by Multitude

DEAD ROBBED AFTER CRASH

CORNING, N. Y., July 5.—With twenty-two bodies remaining unidentified and with many of the injured in an extremely dangerous condition, the horror of yesterday's rear end collision on the Lackawanna railroad continues to grow. Many of the bodies whose identity has not been learned will probably never be recognized so terribly mutilated are they. The death list today was forty-one. In addition Nellie Sandel of Newark, N. J., and James Griffith were declared by doctors to be dying, and six others were not expected to recover.

Worst on Road

The wreck was the worst in the history of the road, whose boast previously was that only two passengers had been killed on it since 1900. The road officials blame Engineer Schroeder. He was in the cab of train No. 11, which crashed through the standing Buffalo limited. The company officials say the semaphore a mile distant was at "Danger," that the block in which the limited was stalled was also set against No. 11 and that a flagman from the passenger tried to stop the on-coming train half a mile from the accident. The engineer says that the distant signal was at "Clear" and that he saw no flagman. He insists that the fog which had come in from the Chemung river was so dense that it was almost impossible to see the track a train's length ahead.

Dead Are Robbed

The police admitted today that bodies of the dead and dying were robbed as they lay in the open fields beside the tracks. Coroner Smith has detailed fifteen special deputies to aid Deputy Sheriff Sullivan in protecting the property of the victims which was picked up from the wreckage and stored near the temporary morgue.

The story of the wreck, like others which have recently preceded it, was one of steel cars as havens of refuge and wooden cars as death traps. None of the dead were in the steel cars. The great solid train cut through the wooden day coach and Pullman like a knife through cheese, but the steel Pullman sleepers and the steel day coaches held fast. They were bent out of shape with the terrific force of the blow, but they held intact and their occupants were injured, not killed.

Blame Engineer

The Lackawanna railway gave out today a supplementary statement on yesterday's fatal wreck at Corning in which it again declared that neglect on the part of the engineer who disregarded danger signals was the sole cause. The statement says: "Engineer William Schroeder of Elmira, who was the engineer of the express train which ran into passenger train No. 9, near Corning, N. Y., was 54 years of age, and had been on this particular run ever since it was established, twenty-three years ago, and had a most excellent record."

"An official investigation on the ground disclosed that Engineer Schroeder of the express train which ran into train No. 9, passed signal 2,773, which stood at 'Caution,' indicating clearly that train No. 9 was in the next block ahead and requiring him to reduce speed, and hold his train under control. This he did not do, but ran through the block at full speed and ran by the home signal which stood at 'Danger' 4,500 feet beyond the first signal. Train No. 9 was standing 450 feet beyond the danger signal which was disregarded."

AEROPLANE DROPS; TWO ARE KILLED

SALISBURY, Eng., July 5.—Two more lives were sacrificed to the science of aviation today. Captain E. E. Lorraine of the Grenadier Guards and Sergeant Major Wilson were instantly killed while flying in an army aeroplane near Stonehenge today. One of the side planes became warped, and the aeroplane turned turtle. Both men were jarred from their seats, and fell 40 feet, being instantly killed.

Captain Lorraine was one of the best known of the British army aviators. He had numerous flights throughout the country and was recently detailed as instructor at the army aviation field on Salisbury plain. The aeroplane in which he was killed was a Nieuport monoplane.

No man ever has to hunt temptation; he is lucky if he can dodge it.

TWELVE AVIATORS KILLED THIS WEEK

LONDON, July 5.—The death of two more men in England today brought the toll of death in the air for the present week to the appalling total of an even dozen. On Monday, Miss Harriet Quimby and W. A. P. Willard were killed at Boston. Beno Koenig was killed and three other aviators injured at Altoona, Prussia; Tuesday, Melvin Vaniman, Calvin Vaniman, George Boutillon, Fred Elmer and Walter Guest were killed when Vaniman's dirigible exploded at Atlantic City, while yesterday Thomas Moore was killed when his parachute failed to work at Belleville, N. J., and Lieutenant Caranda of the Roumania army met death while giving an exhibition flight at Bucharest.

Simone Catnot, a five-year-old girl, fell from a fourth floor window of a building at Havre, France, the other day, without sustaining any injury save a few scratches. The child had been left alone in a locked room, and as she could not open the door, she broke a pane of glass with an umbrella and jumped out of the window. She was taken to a hospital, but after a careful examination was pronounced uninjured.

NEW USE IS FOUND FOR SLOT MACHINE

English postage slot machine.

Uncle Sam may have a more inventive mind than John Bull, but it remained for the latter to make the first use of the slot machine in stamping letters. This slot machine, which is being tried out in London, does not stick the ordinary postage stamp on the letter, but stamps the letter machine used in a postoffice to cancel stamps, says Popular Mechanics. That is, when the sender inserts his letter in the machine, and places a penny in the slot, the envelope is impressed with a circle of red bearing the words "London, 1d. (one penny) postage paid," and also with the numerals designating the section of London in which the letter was stamped.

FRATERNITY MEN DEFEND CHAPTERS

Refute Cornell President's Assertion that Non-members Stand Higher in Class

D. K. E. IS WEALTHY BODY

Forty-two Chapters Own Forty Buildings at Colleges Throughout the Country

Greek letter fraternity men have begun a campaign to refute the recent assertions of Dr. Jacob Gould Schurman, president of Cornell University, that non-fraternity men stand higher in their classes.

"I went through one of the largest universities in this country," said a non-fraternity man a few days ago, "and I received 'bids' from four or five societies, but upon investigating and ascertaining what the costs of joining would be, I found that I could not afford the additional expense, as I was at that time trying to work my way through the university."

Had Good Time
"I continued throughout my four years' residence at the university as a non-fraternity man, and imagined that I had just as good a time as a whole lot of the fraternity men. I played on the football team and took care of first base for a couple of months each spring on the baseball nine. I made my own friends from fraternity and non-fraternity men as I chose, and they accepted me for what I was and not because I wore a pin on my waistcoat with a certain inscription upon it."

"I believe that there are a lot of men who do not join any 'bunch' for some other reason than lack of popularity. Mine was lack of funds, for any Greek letter man will admit that fraternities are expensive institutions for the undergraduate. Others refrain from joining because they are not 'bid' by the crowd to which they desire to belong and still others think that being a fraternity man makes them snobs. I do not put all fraternity men in the same category. Some are snobs and some are not, the same as in any large body of men."

Oppose High Schools
"There are snobs among the non-fraternity set. Some of my best friends, when I was in college, belonged to fraternities and I believe that there were times when they preferred my society to that of some weak-kneed relative with a badge."

The law passed recently by the state of Indiana forbidding fraternities in the high schools has met with approval among the college fraternity men. It is generally agreed by the Greek letter alumni of the colleges that a boy in high school is too young to understand the significance of the associations which a fraternity brings, while if he gets into the wrong crowd at this age he frequently learns bad habits and this prejudice his family against fraternities in general and gives the wrong impression of the organizations which are a part of college life.

Attacks High Frats
"The high school fraternity," said Marcellus B. Holmes of the Alpha Delta Phi club, "is in many cases the illegitimate child of the college fraternity, and while the one in the university stands for associations and friendships and athletics, the other is often the excuse for a boy to shirk his school duties and to learn a lot of bad habits at an age when he is not strong enough to resist temptations. Then he frequently achieves the wrong idea about college fraternities from some older member of the high school organization who has preceded him to college and made some crowd whose standing is doubtful. He pledges himself to join this chapter before he has had an opportunity to investigate the others, and perhaps makes a mistake which will blight his whole college course."

D. K. E. Exhibits Wealth
To show the power that college fraternities are attaining in this country, James Anderson Hawes, the general secretary of the Delta Kappa Epsilon, has compiled a statement which gives an accurate estimate of the value of the property owned by D. K. E.

"We have," says Mr. Hawes, "twelve thousand living graduates. The total value of the property belonging to the fraternity at this time is nearly three-quarters of a million dollars, which is more than was the entire income producing investment of Yale university at the time of the civil war. We have forty-two chapters, and every one of these chapters occupies one or more entire houses. All but four of these chapters own their own buildings. Of these four two have sufficient money raised now to purchase their own houses before next autumn. This will leave only two chapters next fall which do not own their houses, and these two already have considerable funds, so that by the end of next winter we can be almost certain of having every chapter housed. As several of our chapters own halls as well as the houses in which they live, we have today a total of forty-two buildings owned by the fraternity of forty-two chapters. I believe that this is certainly the record, at least for any one of the large fraternities with a number of chapters."

LET SINGER WED SAYS SEMBRICH

Declares Women of the Opera Are Better Fitted Physically Than Most for Marriage

Indiscriminate advice to young women singers against matrimony should stop, says Mme. Semberich, who in spending part of the summer at her villa on the shores of Lake Geneva, Switzerland. The celebrated prima donna takes great interest in budding song artists and she resents the effects of fame seeking instructors to prevent marriages on the part of their pupils. Such a course is not only unhumanitarian but it is zeal entirely misdirected, asserts Mme. Semberich. She considers restraining advice in marital affairs usually wasted.

"Not that I recommend marriage for every woman singer regardless of its effect upon her career, but that I refuse to recognize the right or duty of anyone to legislate for singers in this manner," said the soprano without the least apparent ill-feeling.

"There are many persons who go so far as to say that opera singers should not wed. This is decidedly pernicious doctrine and no one can conscientiously endorse it who appreciates the opera environment. Women of the opera are better fitted for marriage than most women for they are strong in body and mind and their children should be proportionally healthier than the average child. They can live domestic and happy lives, as has been sufficient proven. As married women they sing even better, because they are happier—even if all do not realize this fact."

"Why discourage a sacred and indispensable state merely to satisfy the misguided whim of some avicious teacher who fears the loss of his pet pupil? His advice is unquestionably bad, and fortunately miscarries as a rule."

Not Possible

I can't divide my profits with you. My business has not increased $75,000,000.00 the past year and I don't spend $2,000,000.00 in advertising; my buildings don't cover 5000 acres and I don't employ 4,000 stenographers. But I do sell the best gasoline engine made, the Stickney with 57 points of superiority over all others, and at a price which represents value in every pound.

SECURE THE WELL ROUNDED EDUCATION

Do not specialize too early. This is advice to the young student which Dean Cooley of the engineering department of the University of Michigan believes to be good. In other words if you propose to follow engineering as a profession do not confine your attention in your early education to engineering subjects, or those naturally leading into engineering. The man who as a boy devoted himself to this will not necessarily make the biggest success as an engineer. Mr. Cooley says:

"There seems to be a very general impression that the so-called vocational studies in the high school are of prime importance, particularly as relates to engineering. In the department of engineering it is almost the universal opinion that too much importance is attached to manual training and drawing in the preparatory schools, and for years Greek and Latin have been accepted as suitable preparation for students of engineering; not only accepted, but believed to be better preparation than some other things offered.

"It may surprise a number of my friends to learn that, in my opinion, manual training and drawing, as taught in the preparatory schools, are far more important to the student who contemplates pursuing a literary or classical course in the university than to those who will study engineering.

"The literary or classical student has little or no opportunity in the university or in after life to learn anything about manual training or drawing, and the little he gets in the public schools is all that he ever has. The engineer, on the contrary, spends his whole life in connection with manual training and drawing, and has little or no opportunity to acquire the culture brought by the study of literary subjects or of Latin or Greek."

What this means is that it is the rounded man who is most likely to make a good success of whatever he goes into. The aim of education should be not to develop one line but all lines. A man should not be drilled on engineering alone from boyhood up, for into successful engineering a great many other things, of the so-called culture nature, enter in ways so subtle as not to be ordinarily recognized. On the other hand if a man is going to devote his life to study Greek he should be given in early life a little more manual training, for in this way will his sympathies, his understanding and his mental scope be broadened. Coming from the head of one of the leading engineering schools of the country, who has had unusual opportunities for observing the effect of various kinds of preliminary training on the pupils, the statement of Dean Cooley is significant. Do not slight the element of variety of educational matters.

ARE YOUR CHILDREN IN SCHOOL CENSUS?

Citizens who have not been interviewed by the canvassers for the school census on or before July 13 are requested to call up L. L. Brown, city hall, who has charge of the work. Remember that if you have a child of school age who is not recorded in the list the omission costs the city $2.60, the amount paid cities by the state for each child so recorded. To get this record is the sole purpose of the canvass, and to give the information costs parents absolutely nothing.

If Canada wants to do us a good turn, it will surrender the old gun captured by the English at Bunker Hill in 1776. Visitors to Quebec have seen it resting on the obelisk. Unless Canada fears the weapon will be turned against Windsor, the request of the Massachusetts historical society will be granted.

The First congressional district in Indiana has an annual rat day. It is left largely to conjecture why the rat killing district has the same boundaries as the congressional district.

However, in the course of the day, over 6,000 rats were killed in the aforesaid district.

Not a Heavenly Messenger
A tall, thin man, with one eye, made his way into the office of Amos K. Klam, the prosperous banker.

"Let me have $10,000 and I will repay you when you need it most," stated the visitor.

With a sign of benevolent Amos K. Klam handed over the money.

Ten years later Amos K. Klam was in distress. He needed just $10,000 to save him from disgrace.

A tall, thin man, with one eye, appeared.

"You are Amos K. Klam?" said the visitor.

"Yes, yes, exclaimed the banker. 'Heaven has sent you.'

"Correct," said the visitor, as he drew forth a great wallet. 'I have here a work that will interest you. It is the history of the world in sixty-nine volumes—profusely illustrated—bound in morocco—edited by Prof. Highbrow. Our terms—'

But Amos K. Klam had fainted.—San Francisco Call.

Little and Big Religion
This story comes from Australia, where all conversation turns eventually to matters educational, because every parent is painfully anxious that his sons shall pass the standard which will free them from certain years of military service.

A visitor was conversing with his host's small son, and opened, as a matter of course, with the words, "Do you go to school now?"

"Yes."

"And what do you learn? Reading, writing, sums?"

"Oh, yes, and I learn religion, too."

"Religion?"

"Yes, I learn the little religion, which teaches that we all come from Adam. But my elder brother is in a higher class; he learns the big religion, and that teaches that we all come from monkeys."—Manchester Guardian.

He's Sitting Tight
Three years have passed since first I came
To lay full siege to Betty's heart;
But Betty's busy chasing fame—
She's bound to reach the top in art.
Since art is not my forte 'tis true
The other fellows plume her wings;
Yet I sit tight—and here's my cue:
Each year she's doing different things!

Two years ago, through paint and oil
A touseled dauber led the way;
The year before, with fingered toil
Long-haired musicians ruled the day;
Last year a literary chap
Helped her get most outrageous stings;
I'm sitting tight—I think mayhap
She soon will reach the end of things!

With clinking tools this year she's spent—
With sculptors she eats marble dust.
Next year—what will the next present?
She's nearing now the end, I trust.
Even though she's not, I will not fret:
No matter what the future brings
I'll just sit tight and win her yet.
Some day she'll chuck artistic things!

DETROIT TWIRLER
SLUMPS WITH TEAM

Edgar Willett, the Detroit twirler who so often has pitched the Tigers to brilliant victory, is going down with his club. A glance at the pitching averages is enough to convince anyone of that. Willett is led by a score or so of American league pitchers. The entire team seems to have lost heart, and has assumed a "don't care" attitude which threatens to keep the Detroit boys in the second division "the remainder of the season."

FOR THE NECK AND SHOULDERS

A Free Prescription that Instantly
Removes Blemishes, Tan Freckles,

The Dutch neck and the evening gown too often expose the discolorations and blemishes of high collars and the effects of tan and freckles. It is easy to overcome these conditions and make the neck beautiful and white and soft and smooth—to remove, in other words, every blemish and to make the Dutch collar as attractive as it is comfortable. This prescription can also be used on the shoulders, and it is marvelously effective to beautify the hands and arms.

If you want to try it go to your drugist, get an empty two-ounce bottle, also a one ounce bottle of Kuxol Compound. Pour the entire bottle of Kuxol into the two ounce bottle, add quarter of an ounce of witch hazel, then fill with water. Prepare this at your own home and then you know what you have. One application will astonish you. It is deliciously cool and soothing and is not affected by perspiration. It will not rub off.

If you put it on one hand only, or on one side of the neck, and note the difference you will see the wonderful change it makes instantly. The results are permanent, and continued use of this prescription will result in a skin as soft and smooth as a child's, a skin from which redness and roughness and freckles have been entirely removed.

"I don't know now what did happen," she said. "I thought it was you. Your young lady had gone upstairs for some time, and left me to put paper on the closet shelves. While I was working in there, some one slammed the door behind me and locked it. It frightened me nearly out of my senses, and then I thought as perhaps you were one of those young cut-ups, and had done it for a joke."

"Did you hear any noise in the house?" I asked her.

"No, I heard nothing at all," she replied dryly. "I've been making all the noise myself I could hear at one time. Why?" she added. "Has anything happened?"

I saw she had no information for me and decided against letting her know of Nancy's disappearance.

"No," I stammered, "nothing has happened. I really must apologize," I blundered on, feeling that I was lying clumsily. "but I am afraid that I really did shut the door. You see, I'm very absent-minded. I don't remember doing it, but I suppose I must have. We had a closet at home very much like this, and we had to keep continually looking it to keep the cat out. I must have just shut the door and turned the key from force of habit, when I went through the kitchen; but I give you my word of honor, Mrs. Blake, that I didn't see you."

"That's just like my father used to be," she said, "long about when he was ninety. He was so absent-minded, he'd go up-stairs to change his shoes and go to bed right in the middle of the day." She launched into a long series of her father's peculiar and absent-minded doings, which in my agony I had to strive to listen to quietly; for I was very anxious to get her out of the house, suspecting nothing, a feat which I finally accomplished by saying that Nancy was tired out and resting and that she wanted Mrs. Blake to be home in time to cook her own supper. Then I mounted the stairs again to Nancy's room. The late sun came levelly through the windows, lighting its farthest corner. One chair lay on its side, lace window curtains were disarranged, and a curtain rod had been ripped away with a force that had broken its old-fashioned hook. That was all. But that all was enough. Nancy had not gone of her own free will, and with murder in my heart I laughed aloud in the silent room.

This, then, was the errand of the midnight prowler, this the accomplished aim of the man, for he must have been the same, who had inquired for us at the county clerk's office. Who he was, whether an agent of Ephraim Bond's or not, whether or not this was all part of the original plan, I could not know, and for the instant did not care. It was enough for me that Nancy was gone and that she had been taken roughly. I knew that I should find her again, if I had to kill some one to do it; find her and bring her home. The next time this man came under my hands he should not escape so easily.

But on Nancy's bureau lay something white, a mocking sheet of paper that looked up at me. I read:

"I have changed my mind, luckily in time for us both. You must forgive me, but I find that I am unable to overcome an innate repugnance of physical disfigurement. I did not wish the pain of seeing you again, which, I am sure, you will see would have been a pain for us both, and so I am taking the afternoon train for Philadelphia. There I shall spend the night with friends, and in the morning take up the rest of the journey home. Forgive me and believe me, I am sorry. You are not to try to follow. That is absolutely final.

Even as I read it, I knew the thing was a lie. I had never seen her writing; but whether this letter was forged or whether she had written it herself, under the necessity of some compulsion, I could not decide; already, I was too sure of her to believe it. Whatever she might do, or had done, she would certainly never have made my hands the excuse for running away, nor indeed would she have run away at all.

The thing was outside the possibility of her moral courage. If, in my absence, she had decided for any reason that our proposed marriage was wrong, I was sure she would have waited for me, and told me that reason with gentle bravery.

I folded the note and put it in my pocket, then, with a sudden tardy thought, cursed myself furiously and aloud, for I remembered the galloping horse that had so nearly run me down, the swaying buggy, the lashing, cruel whip; Nancy must have passed me almost at our very gates, and I had stood gaping in the road and wondering watched her out of sight. What a hopeless fool I had been, and even now the minutes were flying. Again I found myself out upon the open road, running; this time tirelessly and with a new-found strength. Evening had fallen, and here and there I passed tollers returning home. One or two called after me, but I kept steadily on my way until the town lights began to twinkle before me. Then, here and there, I stopped to make inquiries, fearing now at many turnings to lose the trail of him whom I pursued.

A lathered, fountained horse attracts attention anywhere, and I easily traced it to the heart of the town itself. My last informant vaguely thought it had gone through, but after that I absolutely lost track. It might have been

MYRICK PICNIC DRAWS CROWD

More than 2,000 Attend St. Mary's Church Celebration at East Side Park

BIG PROGRAM IS ENJOYED

Dan Whalen Captures the Greased Pig; Orphans Enjoy Outing on the Fourth

Over 2,000 persons attended the celebration held at Myrick park by the St. Mary's church yesterday. The program which opened in the morning, was cut short by the heavy rain which sent all hurrying to shelter. Despite this handicap, the picnic proved one of the most successful ever given by the church. Over $1,000 was cleared which will be used to pay off the indebtedness caused by the new school.

During the afternoon, the Norden band gave a concert and the amusement program consisting of all kinds of races and contests was opened. The most amusing spectacle of the day was the attempt of the crowd to capture the greased pig. All were given warning and with the signal, 2,000 persons made a wild scramble in pursuit of the pig which managed to elude their grasp with ease, diving first to the right, then to the left and working his way through the crowd.

Daniel Whalen, of Thill-Manning-Whalen company, captured the pig and accompanying honors after a last spurt of speed, nearly three blocks from where it had been liberated. With a final dash and lunge, Dan threw his arms affectionately around the hog's neck and despite all the protests of the latter he held fast until proper fastenings could be procured.

One hundred and sixty children of the orphans' home were taken to the park by the La Crosse City Railway company, who provided special cars for the children free of charge. Father Robert E. Condon contributed to the pleasure of the children by contributing $80 which was divided among them for incidental expenses. The prizes which were awarded were donated by J. J. Hogan, Bryant & Sisson, Selsstad & Hansen, La Crosse Cracker company and the National Biscuit company. Dinner was served by the ladies of the church. The celebration was brought to a close at 7 o'clock.

JEFFERY HELPS OUT GOOD ROADS

President of Automobile Company Gives Big Sum for Wisconsin Highways

Country wide interest in the improvement and maintenance of public highways, nowhere is more pronounced than in the middle west. There are under consideration by legislative bodies and motoring organizations in the Mississippi valley a number of projects looking toward the betterment of road conditions.

One of the most formidable of these undertakings is that by which it is hoped to link Chicago and Milwaukee. Impetus was given plans for this improvement by the contribution this week of $1,000 toward a $6,000 fund to be devoted to the building and maintenance of roads in Kenosha County, Wisconsin.

The gift was made by Charles T. Jeffery, in behalf of The Thomas B. Jeffery Co., of which he is president. With the completion of the proposed Chicago-Milwaukee highway will be established the first leg in a route that will take the motorists from the hills and lakes of Wisconsin over the prairies of Illinois to the Mississippi River at St. Louis.

"This gift was made by this company," said Mr. Jeffery, "because we are interested in the building of good roads in Kenosha county and because we appreciate the demand for improvement that is being made by those who have occasion to use our roadways. We are hopeful that this movement will be a general one for we are in hearty sympathy with those who advocate the cause of improved highways."

GOTCH CAN USE HIS TOE HOLD

Smedjkal had requested that the referee bar that hold, saying that if the champion got one on him during the match,

RUSSIA HAS POLICY OF CONSERVATION

WASHINGTON, July 5.—An interesting story of the conservation of forests in Russia comes from Consul John H. Groat, stationed at Odessa. That the Russians, backward in many things, have long been foresting in area, the extensive state forests, are but gradually being brought into use, and for a long time to come they will continue to be an important reserve timber supply for the world. These forests cover 937,000,000 acres, a proportion of which is well stocked. The increasing utilization of state forests is shown by increasing receipts from the sale of timber, which have risen from $9,486,300 in 1890 to $42,535,610 in 1911.

Charity seems to cover a multitude of sins, but most of them show through.

Amusement House Has Been Entirely Remodeled and Enlarged for Its Reopening

Remodeled so that its own mother wouldn't recognize it, the new Bijou theater will tomorrow afternoon enter upon a new existence as a motion picture house. The Majestic theater company has spared no expense to make the popular old amusement house into a strictly up to the minute establishment, and in point of beauty and convenience it now ranks with the big vaudeville theater operated by the same firm.

The old front of the theater has been renovated and made over along the most approved artistic lines. The seats have been entirely renewed, and the seating capacity of the house much enlarged. Interior decorations and fixtures are also new, and a new projection screen of the latest pattern has been installed. The class of service will be kept up to a high standard. Only licensed pictures of the most refined sort will be shown, and special attention to the tastes of children and their accommodation will be a predominant feature. The management asserts the house will be the coolest place in the city. Ten big electric fans will keep the air in constant motion, and the most modern type of ventilation systems has been installed. Matinees will be given daily, starting at 3 o'clock and the continuous evening performance will begin at 7:30.

AYLWARD WANTS GOVERNORSHIP

MILWAUKEE, July 5.—There will be a hot fight in the democratic state convention when it meets next Thursday to adopt a platform and nominate a state ticket over the nominee for governor.

This was assured some time ago. It is made more certain by advices which come from Baltimore to the effect that John A. Aylward has reconsidered his previous announcement that he would not be a candidate for governor, and will enter the lists as a candidate for the nomination.

This will be a big surprise to democrats throughout the state. It was supposed that Mr. Aylward would support A. J. Schmitz' candidacy, as they had been working together for the last few months in securing a Wilson delegation from Wisconsin. It will renew the factional fight in the party which has continued for several years.

SCOUT CONFESSES WRONG.

To the boy who gets into trouble occasionally Admiral Lord Charles Beresford, Chief Sea Scout of the British Boy Scouts gives this word of encouragement. "If a lad," he says, "gets into trouble now and again there is no reason why he should have a bad heart; he may be one of those who have high spirits and the pluck to get into a row. As long as he tells the truth, owns up like a man, and takes his punishment like a man, he's all right."

CONSTITUTION TOO HARD TO CHANGE

MADISON, Wis., July 5.—"The greatest issue in America today is the plan to amend the federal constitution so that it can be changed with ease and facility," said Dr. Charles McCarthy, chief of the legislative reference library, today. He asserted that all other issues are subsidiary until this has been settled. It is so difficult to change the constitution under its present form, he said, that the courts in making their decisions from precedent are able to destroy many of the reform laws demanded by the people. When the constitution is so amended so as to make it possible to change it easily, he said, the greatest achievement for conserving the people's rights will have been accomplished.

U. S. ATHLETES HAVE A SANE FOURTH

STOCKHOLM, July 5.—A social near riot today was narrowly averted on the American training ship Finland, when it was learned that President Thompson, the millionaire head of the American Olympic team, had planned an exclusive Fourth of July dinner aboard the vessel, to which none of the athletes was invited. Trouble finally was prevented by Thompson who transferred his dinner to a private hotel.

The Americans had no fireworks with which to celebrate Independence Day and were forced by necessity to observe a "sane Fourth," but they gave a reception on the Finland in the afternoon commemorating their nation's birth with lemonade and hundreds of guests, including the members of other teams, swarmed over the side of the liner.

WASHES FOR THE POWERS

WASHINGTON, July 5.—Without a counterpart in the world is a laundry machine in the bureau of engraving and printing, the plant where the government turns out the national supply of currency. A great item of expense has been the production of new bills to take the place of crumpled, worn and germ-laden paper money, sent in for redemption.

It has had sufficient use to prove its success in taking the wrinkles and dirt out of badly used currency. Two young ladies have been placed in charge of the laundry. One feeds the soiled money to one end of the machine and the other stacks the clean, crisp, laundered notes when they come through.

Before the machine had been placed in practical service the claims made for it attracted the attention of government officials in several European countries. They sent over examples of much abused currency and were delighted in the condition in which it was returned to them.

Hundreds of people have seen the machine in action. Many of those who laughed at the inventor and others associated with him in his effort to put such a machine on the market, are today loud in their praises for the wonderful piece of machinery. It is estimated that in eight hours between 30,000 and 35,000 old bills can be laundered.

National bank presidents have been asked to sign notes from their institutions in strong indelible ink, so that when such bills are put through the laundry the ink will not fade. As it is today, bank presidents sign notes with any kind of ink, from plain ink berry juice up to ordinary five cent ink. These fade in the laundry machine.

Burgess Smith, a native of Macon, Ga., but for the 8 past years a scientist at the bureau of engraving and printing, is the designer of the new machine. He is rather timid in regard to accepting the praise due to him, and it was only after much questioning that his friends could establish the fact that he was the inventor. Samuel Linder, of Philadelphia, for 14 years a machinist at the bureau, followed the designs of Mr. Smith and made the machine. They were laughed at but now they are enjoying together the victory they have won.

WISCONSIN NEWS

MADISON, Wis., July 5.—"A third party cannot be founded on a bolt. That is my reason for believing that the Roosevelt party will fail. But men like Bryan and La Follette must get together to start a party before this country gets any reforms worth speaking of."

This view was expressed here by Eugene W. Chafin, prohibition presidential nominee four years ago. In his lecture tours in the last few years he said he has found an ever increasing demand for a real reform third party.

"There must be a third party," he said. "It will come ultimately. It will put all of the bad men in one party and they will never be able to carry a single election. As slavery once held the balance of power in both parties, so today Wall street holds the balance of power. Graft and evil have no political convictions. And no political party is any better than the bad men in it, whose votes either party thinks it must have to carry the election."

MADISON, Wis., July 5.—Approximately 100,000 volumes were added to the school libraries of the state during the two years just closed, according to a statement prepared by O. S. Rice, state library clerk. His statement will be used as part of the exhibit of the National Educational association at Chicago this week.

"The school libraries of the state contain about 1,500,000 volumes, costing over $800,000," said Prof. Rice. "Additions are being made at the rate of over 100,000 volumes per year. In addition, approximately 1,000,000 books in the free public school libraries of the state are at the service of the schools. The high school libraries contain over 200,000 volumes."

School libraries are built up as a result of a tax of ten cents paid by the state for each child attending school in the district. The books are selected by the county superintendent from lists prepared by the state superintendent.

U. S. LAUNDRY FOR NOTES IS UNIQUE

Machine which Makes Old Bank-notes Like New

WASHES FOR THE POWERS

Samples of Work Have Been Sent to European Nations and Caused Wonder

WASHINGTON, July 5.—Without a counterpart in the world is a laundry machine in the bureau of engraving and printing, the plant where the government turns out the national supply of currency.

A great item of expense has been the production of new bills to take the place of crumpled, worn and germ-laden paper money, sent in for redemption.

It has had sufficient use to prove its success in taking the wrinkles and dirt out of badly used currency.

Two young ladies have been placed in charge of the laundry. One feeds the soiled money to one end of the machine and the other stacks the clean, crisp, laundered notes when they come through.

Before the machine had been placed in practical service the claims made for it attracted the attention of government officials in several European countries.

They sent over examples of much abused currency and were delighted in the condition in which it was returned to them.

Hundreds of people have seen the machine in action. Many of those who laughed at the inventor and others associated with him in his effort to put such a machine on the market, are today loud in their praises for the wonderful piece of machinery.

It is estimated that in eight hours between 30,000 and 35,000 old bills can be laundered.

DIRECTS ASSISTANCE RENDERED ALASKANS

E. P. Berthoff.

So deeply engrossed in politics have the American people recently been that the troubles of the Alaskans who were made homeless by the recent volcanic eruptions have been forgotten or forgotten.

The most serious eruptions occurred on the island of Kodiak off the coast of Alaska. The government is helping the unfortunate natives. Captain Commandant E. P. Berthoff, chief of the U. S. revenue cutter service, is directing the assistance.

SHAH'S POTS AND PANS ARE GOLDEN

TEHERAN, July 5.—The shah's cutlery and kitchen utensils are worth $25,000,000 according to a committee of government experts appointed to make an inventory.

The committee's report shows that no other court, not even that of Spain, has such elaborate pots and pans as the Persian. They are all gold plated on the inside, and the plainest are of silver only. The kitchen salt and sugar canisters are of massive silver, but the spoons and forks, plates and dishes are of solid gold, while most of the knives have handles encrusted with precious stones.

er yesterday afternoon and the Nelsons easily demonstrated their superiority over their opponents, winning 8 to 2. While Squires had the Viroqua nine at his mercy, the Nelsons battled Helgeson, the visitors' star southpaw, out of the box in the sixth, and Rabbit, his successor, was also found frequently in the remaining rounds.

Squires let Viroqua down with three singles and he set down seven men on strikes during the afternoon. His hurling was the feature of the battle as he pitched in excellent form and gave the visitors no chance to win.

On the other hand, Helgeson was found regularly and with two men down in the sixth round Rabbit took his place. Rabbit was also hit hard and four runs were made off him. Helgeson and Squires each fanned four men.

The Nelsons found the two pitchers for eight hits, R. Woll, W. Nelson and Squires each poking out two batters.

Score: R H E
Nelsons . . . 02002310x—8 8 6
Viroqua . . . 000001001—2 3 4
Batteries: Squires and Knutson; Helgeson, Rabbit and Hauge; umpire, R. Jones.

In the other baseball game, a pitchers' battle between Olson and Anderson resulted in a victory for the latter, the Summits beating the North La Crosse club by the score of 4 to 0. Up to the fifth inning not a run was made by either team so perfect was the work of each pitcher but in that round the Summits scored four times, all the runs which were made during the afternoon.

In the fifth inning, two hits, one of which was a double by Heyer, and three errors sent three of the Summits across the pan. This settled the game as no more scores could be made.

Score: R H E
Summits . . . 000040000—4 6 6
N. La Crosse . . . 000000000—0 4 3
Batteries: Anderson and Patterson; Olson and Scholberg; umpire, R. Jones.

An interesting indoor baseball was held between two playground league teams, the Imperials of the south side league beating the Nelson Clothing company team of the north side league by the count of 7 to 0. Weigel, who did slab duty for the Imperials, was invincible and the Nelsons couldn't find him. Streeter, on the mound for the Nelsons, was hit hard by the Imperials.

"RUBE" WADDELL DROPS IN FAINT

MINNEAPOLIS, July 5.—Maybe the failure of George Edward (Rube) Waddell to pitch winning ball for the Minneapolis team this year was explained yesterday when, after fainting as soon as he reached his home from the ball park, Dr. Rosen, who was called, diagnosed his disease as acute indigestion and gall stones.

According to the doctor, G. Edward needs several days of absolute quiet. This is the only hope of putting him into condition to make his old-time fights on the diamond.

Dr. Williams, the club physician, appeared later, and ordered Rube to keep his bed until further orders, saying his condition was serious.

"PEEKING TOM" IS NABBED BY POLICE

Peeking through windows of homes constitutes a charge of disorderly conduct according to the declaration made by Captain L. Dugan of the police department, following the arrest of Henry Mulladahl, alleged to have played "Peeking Tom" at the residence of George L. Jenks, 1423 Kane street. Mrs. Jenks today declared that she was attracted by a noise at a window at about 10:00 o'clock last night, and upon investigation found a man trying to peek in. She notified the police by telephone and he was arrested shortly after.

Similar complaints were made by other residents of the North side last night.

FOURTH CELEBRATOR IS SHOT TO DEATH

CROCKSTON, Minn., July 5.—Martin Jensen from Stephens, who was celebrating the "Fourth" after a quarrel with his pal, Vic Wickstrom in Howard Worris' saloon was found dead in the toilet room with a bullet hole in his right temple, and a revolver by his side at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. It is supposed he took his own life, but Wickstrom was arrested.

Officer Godburn was in the saloon when the shot was fired, but everyone supposed the noise was made by a great firecracker. Dr. H. E. Nelson, deputy coroner is investigating. The victim was 20 years of age, and his home was supposed to be at Hendrum, Minn.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—Representative Oscar W. Underwood, whose action in withdrawing his name from the contest for the presidential nomination at Baltimore hastened the nomination of Governor Wilson, today received the following telegram from the New Jersey executive:

"Your message of congratulations has given me deep pleasure. It cheers me as much as it strengthens me to have the support of a man whose character and leadership in congress all the country admires. Please accept my assurances of warm personal regard."

M'VEAGH REPLIES TO ANDREW CHARGE

LANCASTER, Mass., July 5.—Secretary of the Treasury Franklin MacVeagh, in a statement given out here yesterday declared that the resignation of A. Platt Andrew, assistant secretary of the treasury, was not submitted until it had repeatedly been requested by both MacVeagh and President Taft. The secretary said that Mr. Andrew pleaded to be retained in the service and brought every possible influence to bear to have the request for his resignation withdrawn.

Secretary MacVeagh who is a visitor at the home of Bayard Thayer yesterday received many telegraph and telephone messages from friends and official acquaintances expressing confidence in his administration of the department and prepared a lengthy statement of his side of the controversy precipitated by Mr. Andrew's letters of resignation.

TWO GOLF TOURNEYS AT COUNTRY CLUB

Two golf tournaments were held at the Country club yesterday, two teams playing in the morning, the losers furnishing the dinner while in the afternoon, a flag contest was held. The flag contest was a handicap affair, C. H. Schweizer winning the event while C. W. Lewis and William Niemeyer were tied for second. In deciding the tie Mr. Lewis got second place while Mr. Niemeyer got third. A tennis tourney among the younger members of the club was also held in the afternoon.

CITY HALL FLAG SPOILED

Among the damage caused by the heavy rain yesterday is the destruction of a new $65 flag which had been placed on the flag pole above the city hall. The flag which had been recently purchased was fifteen by thirty feet. Janitor Brown raised the flag in the morning but failed to take it down when the rain started. The flag not being raised high enough, dragged upon the roof, which, with the rain, converted it into a fair imitation of a patched work quilt.

MEXICAN REBELS CUT TO PIECES

Orozco's Forces in Full Retreat Before Troops of Federal General Huerta

EXPECT BATTLE AT JUAREZ

U. S. Officers Are Preparing to Deal with Struggle Across River from El Paso

EL PASO, Tex., July 5.—With General Orozco's rebel forces completely routed and in full retreat northward, the United States army officers here are preparing to deal with a battle which is expected to be fought across the river in Juarez. It is known that Gen. Orozco has already sent his forces through Chihuahua to the northward on a troop train from Bachimba, the scene of yesterday's battle, and he is expected to continue northward to the border.

The American authorities hope Orozco will not try to precipitate hostilities across the river from here but will evacuate soon after and being a temporary capital band will move west and to Sonora.

All details of the Bachimba battle which have been received here show the rebels were cut to pieces. The fighting opened July 3rd, and was desperate practically all of that day. General Huerta's federal forces attacked the mountain passes at Bachimba, which Orozco had fortified. Huerta could do little with his infantry, but his artillery army consisting of twenty-six cannons and 16 machine guns poured a terrific fire into the rebel position.

Thursday morning Orozco's forces abandoned their position and fled northward on their trains, dynamiting the railroad track and destroying all bridge behind them. The federal found scores of dead and wounded lying on the Bachimba battle field, indicating the haste with which Orozco retreated.

Early today Orozco was at Sauz, 30 miles north of Chihuahua, while his troops were only 114 miles below the American border. The rebels have cut all wires leading to Chihuahua from the north.

TAFT DEVOTES HIS TIME TO GOLF

BEVERLY, Mass., July 5.—Bright and early today President Taft was on the golf links for an 18-hole contest with his friend, John Hays Hammond. Before going to the links, President Taft had an hour's session with his stenographer, and then motored to the Myopia club. This afternoon after luncheon at home and a nap, the president will take an automobile ride along the North shore. Yesterday afternoon he motored to Hamilton to visit Secretary of the Navy Meyer, who is recuperating from an attack of typhoid. He spent the evening with his family on the front porch of Paramatta cottage viewing the fireworks.

TAFT CUTS DOWN FOREST RESERVE

By Proclamation He Reduces Acreage of National Timber Lands 215,000 Acres

DUE TO FALSE SURVEYS

Hasty Work Caused Inclusion of Too Much Land in First Boundaries

WASHINGTON, July 5.—President Taft has just made considerable changes in National Forests in Montana, Arizona, Nevada, Utah and California through Presidential proclamations modifying the boundary lines. By these changes nearly 275,000 acres of land are eliminated from the forests, about 65,000 acres are added, and about 35,000 acres are transferred between two forests, while a new forest is created by the division of an old unit into two.

The net result is to bring down the total gross area of the National Forests to about 187,000,000 acres, of which nearly 27,000,000 acres are in Alaska. To a considerable extent, however, the reductions, so far as land actually owned by the government is concerned, are apparent rather than real, owing to heavy alienations in the tracts eliminated. Some 22,000,000 acres of the National Forest gross area are not owned by the government.

The high water mark of the National Forest gross area was reached in 1909, when the forest boundaries included over 194,000,000 acres. It was then realized, however, that in making the examinations on which the Presidential proclamations creating the forests were based the work had been too rapid to insure in all cases the best boundaries. Sometimes land which should have been included was left out, while at other times land was taken in which was not best suited to forest purposes.

Consequently a complete overhauling and rectification of the forest boundaries was planned, and has been going on ever since. By successive proclamations President Taft has eliminated nearly 11,000,000 acres, while he has added about 4,000,000 acres.

Six in Montana

In Montana the new proclamations eliminate a total of 116,370 acres from six forests—the Custer, Absaroka, Blackfoot, Kootenai, Lewis and Clark, and Flathead—while 14,640 acres are transferred from the Blackfoot to the Kootenai and 40,640 from the Kootenai to the Blackfoot, to facilitate administration. In Arizona 106,540 acres are eliminated from the Coronado National Forest. In Nevada 49,840 acres are eliminated from the Humboldt and 55,640 acres added, of which 12,800 acres are included in the new Ruby National Forest, composed principally of that part of the old Humboldt lying south of the Southern Pacific Railroad. In Utah 1,340 acres are eliminated from the Sevier, while in California 8,680 acres are added to the Shasta and 480 acres to the Klamath.

War on Rats

Rats on ships do several million dollars of damage to cargoes every year, to say nothing of the carrying of diseases. Rat-killing virus is used successfully on shipboard, but some of the rats become immune to the disease which the virus causes. This is not so bad, because the rats which are not killed by the virus, but have gotten used to it, carry virus disease to other rats, and these in turn are killed by the disease.

Ancient Roman Custom.

By the customs of our country, if any person under prosecution for a capital crime did not appear, an officer was sent to his door in the morning to summon him by sound of trumpet, and the judges would never pass sentence before so public a citation. The chocolate plant is a native of America. When first introduced into Europe chocolate was used only as a luxury, but it speedily advanced in popular esteem. It is now cultivated in countries far from its original home. The chocolate plant, as well as tea and coffee, has been cultivated from time immemorial. Chocolate as a beverage rapidly made its way in Europe, beginning in Spain, whither it was first brought.—Harper's Weekly.

MADISON, Wis., July 5.—A renewed demand that Col. Roosevelt publish his expense account, or make a statement as to why he will not, was made by Senator La Follette in his magazine here today. La Follette declares that Roosevelt has had the backing of the "harvest trust, the steel trust, and Perkins, Hanna and Munsey, and that his campaign has been characterized by a riotous expenditure of money."

CAR CRASH KILLS FOUR PICNICERS

TULSA, Okla., July 5.—One more name was added to the list of victims of the collision on the Tulsa Sand Springs interurban line today, when Mrs. W. A. Snow of Tulsa, Okla., died of her injuries. Three others were killed outright, two of the dead being women. Eighteen persons were so seriously injured that they were removed to a hospital, and a score of others received cuts and bruises.

The wreck occurred on a steep grade last night, when a light car of wooden construction got beyond control of the motorman, and crashed into a heavy steel car ahead. The two cars were carrying over 300 persons returning from a picnic. The dead were in the rear car which was telescoped.

The Effects of Opiates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells which are likely to become permanent, causing imbecility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life. Nervous diseases, such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying powers are a result of dosing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unavoidable.

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly discouraged, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them wilfully with narcotics.

NEW PHONE METHODS

GENERAL MANAGER OF WISCONSIN TELEPHONE COMPANY IS INSTALLED IN MILWAUKEE OFFICES

Effective July 1st, Mr. H. O. Seymour became general manager of the Wisconsin Telephone Company and will be located at the general offices of that company in Milwaukee.

About a year ago the central group of Bell Telephone companies operating in the states of Michigan, Illinois, Ohio and Indiana, so arranged their organization that the officials who were most expert in the various branches of the business were brought together in a central organization at Chicago. These men were to develop the best telephone methods and practices found in the various states in order to build up the most efficient organization possible, by standardizing methods, standardizing practices and enabling the companies to better care for the generous patronage in business which the telephone industry has been enjoying for the past few years. Out of this central organization has developed this new plan. It was decided that greater efficiency in administration could be secured by an organization which places an executive in charge of a company having supervision over the various departments, rather than have its various department heads report to specialists in their departments at Chicago, as during the past year.

Necessity for direct supervision from Milwaukee as arranged is further increased by the necessity for close contact with the commission and other utility governing bodies within the state, and also on account of a very large increase, not only in the telephones connected directly with the system, but also by the large number of independent telephone companies which are entering into connecting arrangements with

ROOSEVELT WON'T QUIT

PREPARED TO GO AHEAD WITH "BULL MOOSE" PARTY EVEN IF HE IS ONLY ONE IN IT

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., July 5.—Plans for the new progressive party which were to have been made public last evening, have been withheld until next Monday. This action was decided on by Col. Theodore Roosevelt following the discovery that most of the newspapers of the country were planning to feature, in their editions of Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning, Woodrow Wilson, his family and plans.

It was agreed among the advocates of the "Bull Moose" party that if the plans of the third party movement were to be disclosed today that they might be overshadowed by the Wilson publicity.

So far as Roosevelt is concerned he had made it plain to everyone who has approached him on the subject that he is prepared to go ahead with his party even though he could not expect to secure a single electoral vote in the coming campaign.

the Bell system. This new form of organization makes no change in the personnel or present form of organization in the various exchanges operating in Wisconsin, and there will be no general switching of employees. It simply means that the organization is strengthened.

Mr. B. E. Sunny remains as president of the company, Mr. Alonzo Burt is vice president, in charge of operations, with Mr. Seymour as the general manager, as mentioned above.

DAN BEARD GIVES ADVICE TO SCOUT

National Boy Scout Commissioner Tells What to Look for on Hikes in the Woods

DEVELOPS SENSES, HE SAYS

Leader Says Boys Must Keep Eyes, Ears and Nose Always at Attention

Daniel Carter Beard, National Scout Commissioner of the Boy Scouts of America has given hints on scouting to the Boy Scouts of America telling them what they should be on the watch for in their hikes and how to scout for birds and animals in the woods. Here is his chat with the Boy Scouts of America:

Develop Senses

"One of the great things in the Boy Scout activities," says Beard, "is teaching and encouraging the Scouts to develop their five senses. Every boy thinks that he can hear, see, taste and smell, but it is only a few of us who have developed these senses to a normal degree. For instance, there are thousands of sounds all around us which we do not hear because we have not fixed our attention upon them, and there are thousands of scents which we do not smell because we have not been taught to notice the different odors unless they are so pungent and strong as to affect our personal comfort. To quote the Good Book, 'We all have eyes and we see not.'"

"It is the duty, however, of every Scout when he starts on a hike to keep his eyes, ears and nose at attention, to note not only the general contour of the country, the direction of a range of hills, the direction pursued by a stream, road, path or trail and its changes of direction, but also to note each bird, mammal, reptile or insect that he passes on the walk. A normal boy of twelve can see more than trained observer of twenty-five. He can, for instance, find more birds' nests, detect their presence quicker than an older person. This is because a boy of twelve comes nearer being a normal, natural human being than a person of more mature years who has dulled his perception by close application to books or business, which is really an artificial use for his mind and eyes.

Watch Directions

"When you start on your hike, look at your pocket compass and see the direction you propose to take. Note whether it is West, Northwest or southeast, and the prominent objects, such as lakes, forests, hills which are in the line of your march. Put your finger in your mouth and moisten it; hold it up and note by your compass the direction of the wind. Also note the kinds of clouds that are floating overhead. Note whether the crows are giving voice to their ordinary 'Caw Caw' or flying high overhead, giving voice to an occasional 'Cuckoo.' All these things have a bearing upon the weather probabilities and if you will afterwards put down in your note just what happened in twelve hours after you will learn what the signs portended.

"In this way you can become an expert forecaster of the weather, a very necessary attribute for a camper or outdoor lad of any kind. Note the birds you see, identify them or make notes from which you may identify them later. In my animal book I have given directions from which any boy can make crude sketches of the birds he sees and accompanied with notes necessary for identification.

Don't Approach Nests

"Caution! Never approach to a bird's nest that is upon the ground. You are unaware of the fact but there are bright eyes watching you while you are on your hike and noses trained to follow you like blood hounds. Weasels, mink, foxes and skunks frequently follow your trail and will discover the bird's nests on the ground and destroy them. I have had this happen dozens of times and before I discovered the cause I almost became superstitious because the second time I visited the nest on the ground I would find the nest and young eggs had been destroyed. Nests that are in trees you can examine but do not disturb them. Our birds are decreasing so rapidly that we cannot afford to lessen their number, and the Boy Scouts of America should stand for the protection of our native birds and mammals. Remember that they also are Americans. They were here before Columbus stumbled on our continent and we want to keep them here as long as the continent stands.

Drinking Water With Food.

It is a trifle disconcerting to be told that when the thrifty housewife expends from 20 to 28 cents per pound for the best cuts of beef about 60 per cent of the sum is being paid for water. Yet such is the case, about 60 per cent of the bulk of uncooked beef or mutton being water. . . . The flesh of pigeons is about 70 per cent water, that of fowls and ducks 65 per cent, while a really fat goose may have as little as 33 per cent of water in its composition. The flesh of fish varies considerably in the quantity of water contained, the figures ranging according to the kinds of fish, from 44 to 80 per cent.—Popular Mechanics.

2,000,000 KIDS AT WORK IN U. S.

One in Seven of All Children Ten to Fourteen Years Are Not in School

There are more than 8,000,000 illiterates in the United States, and one in seven of all children between 10 and 14 are not in school, according to the Child Labor Bulletin, a new quarterly review issued by the National Child Labor Committee. Twenty-nine states do not care whether children can even read and write when they permit them to go to work, and there are a million children today under the age of 16 years who are employed in the various industries of the country, in addition to another million in agriculture, only a part of whom are assisting their parents on the farm.

Shows Progress.

The first number of the bulletin is devoted to child labor and education, the subject of the Eighth Annual Conference on Child Labor, held in Louisville, but incidentally it shows how far the United States has progressed since the first child labor law was passed in Massachusetts in 1876. Thirty-nine states passed child labor laws since the organization of the National Child Labor Committee in 1904. The fourteenth birthday is now the lowest limit for work for children in the northern states, with the single exception of New Hampshire and in four southern states: Kentucky, Tennessee, Louisiana and Virginia. What is involved in the absence of adequate restriction is vividly expressed by P. P. Claxton, United States Commissioner of Education. "In the Carolinas I have seen children under ten years of age working their lives away in the mills. Their pale faces haunt me still. I saw little boys eight years old drinking black coffee at midnight to keep awake until the end of their shift at four or five o'clock in the morning. Then they went out of the hot, steaming, noisy mill into the cold air of the morning to their homes probably for a little fitful sleep and a drowsy, joyless day, only to come back at night and grind again through the long, dark hours.

Remember Mothers.

"In four states: Ohio, Oklahoma, Illinois and Michigan," Florence Kelley says, "there is now provision made to lift the burden upon the widowed mother by giving her right and not as the sole of a private charity, an allowance out of public finances on condition that she stay in her home and keep her children at home and in school as the state requires." As Jean Gordon of New Orleans puts it on another page: "Certainly the mother does as much for the country in rearing her child-

"Occupations dangerous to health or morals are singled out by some few states and forbidden to minors under sixteen or eighteen or twenty-one, as for example the night-messenger service is now regulated by special laws in New York and nine other states.

Means Racial Degeneracy.

Having noted progress the bulletin offers the following indictment of the child labor system, namely, that "child labor means racial degeneracy, the perpetuation of poverty, the enlargement of illiteracy, the disintegration of the family, the increase of crime, the lowering of the wagescale and the swelling of

The National Child Labor Committee says it intends to issue the bulletin regularly because of the splendid results already secured through pamphlets. Other numbers will be devoted to one or another phase of the child labor problem, and will keep subscribers in touch with the progress of the fight against child labor and with the results of investigations.

Natural Dividing Line.

Nature herself has drawn a dividing line between what is appropriate for men and what for women. There is no question of superiority or inferiority.—Exchange.

SAN FRANCISCO — That the 900,000 club women throughout the United States should in the future address themselves particularly to international and industrial peace, regulation of the press and the drama, education, inspection of factories, and a closer watch on national legislation affecting social

The federation went on record as in favor of teaching personal and sex hygiene in normal and public schools. Among the prominent club women who delivered addresses were: Mrs. Josiah E. Cowles, of Los Angeles, national vice president of the federation; Mrs. E. G. Dennison, of San Francisco; Mrs. Frank Shiek, of Wyoming, national secretary, and Prof. Mary L. Sanford, of the University of Minnesota. The latter speaker talked on moral power in the school room. She referred to the danger attending liberal education, of confounding liberty with license, and the influence of unmoral instructions.

BOTH MEN DOWN; BOUT TO WOLGAST

Referee Counts Out Rivers
Although Wisconsin Man
Was Down at Same Time

RIVERS IS BADLY HURT

Has Narrow Escape from Serious Injury as Result of Ad's Alleged Foul

By Referee Jack Welch:
Rivers was on the floor the full ten seconds. I counted him out before the bell rang. That is all there was to it.
By Timekeeper Harder:
I rang the gong ending the thirteenth round before Welch called to Wolgast that he was the winner. Rivers had been down about nine seconds, when the bell sounded.
By Joe Rivers:
Wolgast struck me a foul blow. Even at that, I was on my feet before ten seconds were up. Welch never reached ten at all. Wolgast quit. He was dogging it when he went to the floor.
By Ad Wolgast:
Rivers knew he was whipped. He knows it now. He struck me with his knee when he fell. The pain of that blow was awful. I thought my legs were five feet apart when I got to my feet.
By Joe Levy, Rivers' manager:
Joe was not knocked out. He was put down by a foul blow, and even then he was on his feet at the count of eight. I do not think the referee was competent.
By Tom Jones, Wolgast's manager:

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 5.—Ad Wolgast today retains the lightweight title by virtue of the verdict of Referee Jack Welch of San Francisco, who declared that Ad knocked out the challenger, Joe Rivers, in the thirteenth round of their scheduled twenty round fight at Vernon yesterday.

Never in the history of the fight game in Los Angeles has such confusion marked the termination of a battle. The end came when the fighters were engaged in a fierce rally against the ropes, and were fighting, head to head. Suddenly Rivers sank to the floor, his hands over his groin. Wolgast, almost at the instant, pitched forward to the canvas, his hands clasped about his stomach.

While both lay on the floor, Referee Welch counted. Ringside spectators aver that, at the count of five, the gong sounded, ending the round. Welch continued to count, but Rivers' handlers maintain that their boy dragged himself to his feet at the count of eight, and some persons even declare that Wolgast still was on the floor when Rivers left his knees.

Welch maintains that Wolgast was on his feet before Rivers, that he counted three over the prostrate challenger, and that the gong did not end the round until after Rivers had been declared out.

The scene that followed the decision was of the wildest disorder. Not one spectator in a hundred knew Welch's decision. Others, nearer the ringside were crying "Robbery." Meanwhile the crop of country constables of Vernon were making puerile efforts to clear the ring, which was filled with raving bugs. Rivers' tears streaming down his blood-stained face, begged for the bout to go on. Wolgast, after being assisted to his corner, had fallen back in his chair, half conscious.

Rivers is Hurt
Welch slipped from the arena during the commotion, and Wolgast, as soon as he could be moved, was taken to his training quarters at Doyle's camp near by. Rivers was given relief treatment in his dressing room at the arena, and then hurried to Los Angeles, where doctors who examined him declared that he had been badly hurt.

The Wolgast contingent indignantly denied that Wolgast had fouled his opponent. Tom Jones, the champion's manager, asserts that the wallop which put Rivers to the canvas was a hard right swing, following a left to the pit of the stomach. Wolgast himself stated that he knew the moment the blow landed that Rivers was out. His explanation of the general scramble on the mat is that Rivers' instinctively drawing up of his knee when the blow landed in his stomach, prodded the champion, unintentionally, in the groin.

After Bell
Timekeeper Harder, whose statement was anxiously awaited by the Rivers camp, asserted that Rivers was counted out after the bell had ended the round.

Charles Epton, official referee of McCarey's fight club, who was at the ringside, gave his opinion that Wolgast was winning handily at the time the mix up occurred. He further declared that if Harder's contention that the gong rang before Rivers was counted out is correct, both boys, under the Queensberry rules, should have been sent to their corners and the fight resumed. He declared that Welch probably was a victim of unusual circumstances.

Rivers is resting today at his

Bowels are Basis of Child Health

The careful mother, who watches closely the physical peculiarities of her children, will soon discover that the most important thing in connection with a child's constant good health is to keep the bowels regularly open. Sluggish bowels will be followed by loss of appetite, restlessness during sleep, irritability and a dozen and one similar evidences of physical disorder.

At the first sign of such disorder give the child a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at night on retiring and repeat the dose the following night if necessary—more than that will scarcely be needed. You will find that the child will recover its accustomed good spirits at once and will eat and sleep normally. This remedy is a vast improvement over salts, cathartics, laxative waters and similar things, which are altogether home here. He is suffering acutely from the alleged low blow. Rivers' managers, Joe Levy, said that doctors who examined Rivers declared that the Mexican narrowly escaped being ruptured.

Wolgast spent the night at his camp. He showed few marks aside from facial cuts. He has no definite plans for the immediate future. Promoter McCarey stated that he will try at once to rematch the boys. It is probable that he will try to bring them together on Labor Day.

The Fight by Rounds
Round 1—Called at 4:42. Rivers led the fighting and they clinched. Rivers landed three lefts to the face in quick succession and Wolgast covered. Rivers was much faster and his blocking was better than the champion's. In a clinch Rivers sent in three stiff rights, jarring Wolgast. It was Rivers' round.

Round 2—Rivers opened a deep gash in Wolgast's neck. The blood spurted in a stream. Rivers socked Wolgast ten times without return and then put a stiff left to the stomach. Rivers put a stiff right to Wolgast's nose, starting a new flow of blood. Wolgast fell short while Rivers never missed once. It was Rivers' round.

Round 3—Wolgast took a stiff left in the stomach and head. The fighters exchanged fearful rights and lefts. Wolgast missed a right swing and Rivers put in another left to the wind. They fought like tigers. Wolgast went to a clinch and covered. Both were covered with blood. In a clinch Rivers opened the wound in Wolgast's neck. Round even.

Round 4—They clinched and Rivers sent Wolgast's head back with a right. Wolgast clinched, but could not land at close work. Again Rivers rocked Wolgast, but the champion bored in. Wolgast found much difficulty in hitting Rivers. Wolgast was wild. Again he missed and the Mexican put in left and right to wind. It was Rivers' round.

Fifth Round is Even Round 5—They went into a clinch and both held on. Wolgast put a light left to the jaw and missed a right. In a neutral corner Rivers put left and right to wind and received but a light right to jaw. Then they stood in the middle of the ring looking at each other. They clinched and Rivers nearly upset Wolgast with a right to the jaw. The round was even.

Round 6—They clinched. Wolgast missed and was nearly upset again. Then Rivers put a stiff left to wind. Another right to the jaw rocked Wolgast, but he bored in. His judgment of distance was poor. In a clinch Rivers put right to jaw and Wolgast went down. He was up in an instant and they fought like tigers, head to head. It was Rivers' round by a big lead.

Round 7—Both were cautious. In a clinch Rivers backed the champion to the ropes. Wolgast then sent in left and right to the wind. Rivers covering. In the break both landed light lefts. Rivers then jared Wolgast and the champion was wild, hitting low. Both seemed tired and clinched. Wolgast again hit low. It was Rivers' round.

Round 8—Wolgast tried with right and left, and missed both. Wolgast suddenly rushed and put lefts and rights to the wind, chasing Rivers around the ring. Both seemed content to do it at long range. Both were very tired and slowed down considerably. The round was slightly Wolgast's.

Ninth is Slow Round
Round 9—After a clinch Rivers got in a light left to the stomach. Wolgast began to crouch to protect his stomach. Rivers seemed to be taming as he kept away. It was the tamest round of the fight. Wolgast rushed suddenly and put a stiff left to stomach, making Rivers wince. Wolgast had a shade.

Round 10—Wolgast rushed and Rivers blocked, making the champion miss a left. Rivers kept away, pecking Wolgast and stepping back. In a clinch Wolgast made Rivers cover with swings to the jaw. Rivers suddenly jumped in and put a hard right over Wolgast's kidneys and clinched.

CHICAGO DEPOSITS EXCEED BILLION

Although the deposits of Chicago banks now exceed a billion dollars no central power is seen to control as one is alleged to do in New York. Of the 70 state and national banks, 19 have deposits above $10,000,000 and more each, ranging from that figure up to and above $170,000,000. The growth of the west is shown in the fact that bank deposits increased 112 per cent during 1910 and capital expanded 164 per cent. The surplus and undivided profits show an increase of 160 per cent. Several of the biggest banks have affiliated with the large banks of New York but there are still others, among which The National Bank of the Republic is cited as a notable example, which are entirely independent interests and hold to a policy of encouraging western development with western money. Progress is being made in the movement to curtail the number of private banks which report to neither state nor federal authorities and in many cases have been found to be empty shams and not properly banks at all.

JOHNSON IS GIVEN DECISION IN BOUT

FLYNN BUTTED WITH HEAD

RINGSIDE, LAS VEGAS, N. M.

July 5.—Jim Flynn's butting tactics brought the captain of the state police into the ring in the ninth round of the championship fight here yesterday afternoon, and Referee Ed W. Smith, after puzzling over matters a few seconds, gave Jack Johnson the decision. Smith said, however, that the fight was not won on a foul. Johnson during the last few seconds of the fight had held determinedly to Flynn's arm and shoulders and complained of being baffled in his attempts to use his gloves because of the manner in which the fireman used his head.

Said Smith: "They both transgressed the rules, Johnson by holding and Flynn by butting, but Flynn was the greater offender. The decision was given to Johnson because he had the better of the fighting up to that time. They agreed fully a week ago that if there was any interference of any kind the man in the lead at the time the bout was stopped was to be declared the winner."

Flynn's Chance Good. That Johnson had scored the most punches and had brought the most blood was something that could not be denied, but that he looked a winner at the time of the interference is a different matter. It was the opinion of the majority of the spectators that if Flynn could have kept his temper and fought cleanly he could have won Johnson down.

Flynn was evidently the better trained of the pair. He was full of fight and ginger at all times, while Johnson, with a grin on his face, stalled for fully half a round.

Round 1. "Will you shake hands, Jack?" Afternoon game—R H E Cleveland . . . 600002010—9 13 2 Chicago . . . 000000031—4 11 0 Batteries: Gregg and O'Neill; White, Jordan, Mogridge, Sullivan and Block.

Round 2. As Flynn rushed, Johnson simply grasped him about the shoulders and held him at bay, all the while grinning like an ape. The champion pecked at the fireman's face with light lefts and as they clinched uppercut twice heavily with rights to the jaw. The champion toyed with Flynn, twice more shooting right uppercuts to the jaw, one of which sent the fireman's head bobbing.

The champion early indicated it was to be a battle of words as well as of blows, time and again exchanging his usual repartee with the spectators. Flynn's mouth bled as he took his seat very much worried during the three minutes of fighting in this round.

Round 3. Flynn cut short a remark of Johnson's by twice hooking his right to the jaw. This nettled the black and he cut loose with short arm uppercuts to the jaw. Johnson bled slightly from the mouth as he emerged from a midgeting mixup, but Flynn spat blood in a stream as the champion cut his mouth with a volley of right and lefts.

Round 4. Flynn rushed in close and was met with the customary rain of right and left uppercuts to the face. At that it seemed as if the champion was holding himself in check.

He shook Flynn with a few stomach taps, scarcely trying to protect his body from Flynn's attacks. Johnson constantly shoved out his stomach and invited him to bludge away, which convulsed the spectators.

Round 5. Johnson turned his head to the spectators and hardly noticed his white antagonist. Flynn banged away at the stomach but this time Johnson covered up and shot four lefts to the face in quick succession, varying it with a left uppercut to the jaw. Flynn, at close range, put half a dozen punches on the stomach but Johnson only smiled and again made no apparent attempt to protect himself.

Johnson then aroused the crowd to merriment by releasing Flynn's hold and clapping his own gloves together like a happy school girl.

"I can't fight while he's holding me," shouted Flynn, protesting to the referee. The round ended then, with Johnson holding a running conversation with his wife and seconds.

Round 6. Flynn butted with his head three times, and complained that Johnson made it justifiable by shooting him. Flynn was severely reprimanded for deliberately butting the champion. Flynn tried to find a loop hole to stem the beating given him.

Johnson dazed the fireman with his speed, landing left and right to the jaw. "He's holding me," was Flynn's cry. Johnson, maddened, landed a volley of straight left and right punches to the face, fairly bewildering Flynn, then he stopped himself, apparently with a view to prolonging the contest. Flynn's seconds also warned him to cease butting, when he sat down.

Round 7. Johnson landed fully a dozen rapid-fire rights and lefts to the fireman's face, and at the same time placed himself in a position to release Flynn's butting ways. "Wait a minute," cried the champion to a spectator who had shouted for him to end it. Flynn bled profusely from the nose as Johnson beat a healthy

He kept in close, but Johnson easily avoided his attempts and flung a stiff left to the ear. The champion punched his man across the ring and hooked his left to the ear and a moment later flung a hard short arm jolt to the jaw.

"Wait a minute," cried the champion to a spectator who had shouted for him to end it. Flynn bled profusely from the nose as Johnson beat a healthy tattoo with left and right to that organ. Flynn failed to land a glove on the champion, the black's defense proving impregnable. Johnson made the blood fairly spurt as he rained blow after blow on his bewildered opponent. There was not a drop of blood on the champion as he took his corner.

Round 8. Flynn again tried to butt and was thrice warned. Flynn was helpless in the champion's hands and for the tenth time in this round was warned by the referee, he adding: "One more and I'll disqualify you."

Round 9. Johnson held the fireman at arms' length in an attempt to guard himself against the fireman's constant butting. Flynn finally got in close, jumped a foot in the air and landed with the top of his head against the negro's jaw. Captain of Police Cowles, realizing that the referee seemed loth to disqualify Flynn, stopped the fight.

Referee Smith then gave the decision to Johnson. Johnson was given a terrific cheer while the crowd wended its way out.

KILBANE GOING BACK

CLEVELAND, O., July 5.—Champion Johnny Kilbane today retains his world's featherweight title but many fight fans who saw him go twelve rounds here last night with Tommy Dixon of Kansas City were disappointed at the champion's conduct. Dixon did three-fourths of the aggressive work. Kilbane, many agree, showed class only in about four brief flashes. It was Johnny's first show here since he became the champion.

The Otter a Wanderer.

Of all the beasts in the world, the otter, that fierce outlaw, is the greatest wanderer. It is as if he were afflicted with a curse that forbids him to be still, that forces him ever to push on—on—on! Rest, as rest, he knows not. Three days will see the end of his longest inaction, and the amount of miles he covers in a fortnight would amaze some folks.—Outing.

QUERY: HAS THE WASHINGTON TEAM ENOUGH CLASS TO WIN CHAMPIONSHIP?

Walter Johnson and Bob Groom.

Can the Washington team of the American League keep the pace it has set during the past few weeks? If so, the pennant may at last go to the capital city. Griffith is a wonderful manager and Walter Johnson is a wonderful pitcher. These are the best assets of the club. Bob Groom has been successful in the twirling department, also; Hughes and Cashion are just fair. It is in the infield that the Nationals are weak. In the outfield and catching departments they have not the strength of the Athletics. Take the team all in all, it appears hardly strong enough to stand the wear and tear of a crucial campaign.

GOTCH EASILY KEEPS CHAMPIONSHIP TITLE

CHICAGO, July 5.—Frank Gotch, the Iowa farmer, today retained the champion of all champion wrestlers, although wrestling fans today declared that he was in no danger of losing his title to Joe Smekel, the Bohemian champion. The match did not contain an exciting moment for the 8,000 crowd that packed the Coliseum. All during the time that Gotch was arranging the two straight falls, he kept inquiring of the men at the press tables about the progress of the Johnson-Flynn fight.

YALE ATHLETICS PAY
NEW YORK, July 5.—Yale made $15,054 on athletics for the past year. The track team brought in $2,864 and expended $12,741. Baseball cost $30,511, while the crews were $16,810 behind. It cost $45,751 to run the football team and it earned $66,186. The total receipts for the year were $118,147.

Brennan, Philly pitcher, hit a homer, Jawn Titus poled a three bagger. Zimmerman slugged Slim Sallee for three safeties.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

The Brooklyn and the Tigers disregarded orders for a safe and sane Fourth. There is nothing sane for a double victory of the Dodgers over the Giants nor anything safe. Wait until the Giants—but, never mind.

Mullen of the Tigers pitched a no-hit, no-run game against the Browns, not only that but he added insult by cracking out three hits of his own.

Ty Cobb was up seven times in two games. Five singles, a home run, three stolen bases, and some other things too numerous to mention were his portion.

Joe Wood, Red Sox hurler, hita, about once in three years. He smashed two doubles trying to win his own game from the Athletics.

GEHRING WINS
CLEVELAND, O., July 5.—By winning in straight falls, Henry Gehring of Cleveland, strengthened his hold on the world's middleweight wrestling championship when he defeated Robert Berry, champion of England. Berry put up a splendid defense in the match here last night, several times breaking toe holds but he was outlasted by Gehring.

CARDINAL FARLEY APPROVES SCOUTS

Prelate Sanctions Forming of Scout Troops in Catholic Parishes in America

His Eminence, Cardinal Farley, approves the Boy Scouts of America and the forming of boy scout troops in parishes of the Roman Catholic Church. These troops will be known as the Catholic Boy Scouts of America and will be under the direct supervision of a priest or a Catholic layman. After a careful investigation of the principles of the Boy Scout Movement and after receiving reports from Roman Catholics throughout the country who have been actively interested in the Boy Scout work for more than a year, Cardinal Farley became convinced that the ideals and the activities of the Scout movement can be utilized in a most effective manner in developing boys. His emphatic announcement in favor of the movement already has given incentive to the formation of troops of boy scouts in Catholic churches throughout the country.

Though hitherto some Catholic priests have been opposed to the movement and have discouraged Catholic boys from joining they gradually have come to see that the great principles of the Boy Scouts organization are non-sectarian; that boys of all creeds can take up new activities and apply them in accordance with the teachings of their own church. They also have come to see that there is no effort to keep from authority in the organization men who are Catholics, but that the aim is to get behind the movement men of all creeds and all professions.

The Cardinal's ideas of the Scout Movement are expressed by Monsignor Hayes, Secretary to the Cardinal, who said: "It is correct that the Cardinal has approved of the formation of divisions of the Boy Scouts within the parishes of his diocese so long as the movement is under proper Catholic auspices. That is the whole thing. Victor F. Ridder, son of Herman Ridder, has been much interested in the movement and has explained to His Eminence, who had no objection to it so long as it is conducted under proper auspices. If these boys are going camping in the woods we think we should have something to say about it, and that their church should follow them. The movement is a very big one." The approval of the Cardinal was secured on a condition he requested, which the New York Council assented to, viz.: that there be a Catholic Division of the Boy Scouts and that all parish branches within his jurisdiction prefix the title Catholic Division before their official designation. Thus the branch or troop in course of formation within the Cathedral parish is to be known as Cathedral Troop, Catholic Division of the Boy Scouts of America. Each troop or branch is to be under the immediate direction of the pastor or someone designated by them who shall be informed of the progress of the movement and be consulted from time to time.

Many prominent Catholics throughout the country are thoroughly in sympathy with the Scout Movement. Monsignor Thomas J. Shahan, D. D., President of the Catholic University of Washington and the Rt. Rev. Geo. A. Dougherty, Vice-rector of that institution, have expressed themselves to James E. West, Chief Scout Executive of the Boy Scouts of America, as in thorough sympathy with the Boy Scouts Movement. Festus J. Wade, a banker and Judge Daniel G. Taylor, both of St. Louis, Mo., are enthusiastic supporters of the Scout Movement. In Washington, in Tulsa, Okla., in Kearney, N. J., in St. Louis and in many other cities, there the troops of Catholic Boy Scouts.

Useful Accomplishments.

Every woman wants a cozy corner all her own—be that corner humble or handsome.

Every woman who does not have the home longing is abnormal. Home is made up of little things.

One of the largest of these little things is the ability to cook wholesome food.

Sewing and music are next. A woman might be as homely as can be, but if she can cook a good dinner, make a dress, and let her moods slip out of her finger tips on a piano, that woman will have a chance for a truly happy home a thousand per cent. better than her beautiful neighbor who cannot make even an apron, and who cooks badly for her family.

So I say to mothers, whether you have money or not, teach your daughters all the useful and necessary things in life, so that they will make good, homelike wives and mothers.

Natural Explanation.

"Why is it that women will not learn by experience?" "Because they object to Time's giving them any wrinkles."

WILSON BEGAN CAREER AT BAR

Democrat Nominee Was a Lawyer Before He Took Up Education; President of Princeton

WAS A POLITICAL REFORMER

Put in Power as Governor by Bosses, but Quickly Repudiated Them for Reform

It was as a lawyer that Woodrow Wilson made his first bow to the world, and as president of Princeton he became more widely known, but it was as a reformer that he achieved the limelight, and it was reform that landed him in the New Jersey governor's chair.

Born in Staunton, Virginia, December 28, 1856, he was christened Thomas Woodrow Wilson, but in his youth he cut off the "Thomas" because, as he said, he wanted to use only one name, and Thomas W. Wilson would have been too common-place. Graduating from Princeton in 1879, he practiced law for two years in Atlanta, Georgia, before he became an educator. He taught history and political economy for three years in Bryn Mawr college, and was instructor in the same branches for two years in Wesleyan university. Before he was engaged as a teacher of jurisprudence and politics in Princeton, his alma mater. He became president of Princeton, August 1, 1902, and held that position until October, 1910, when he resigned to become governor. In 1885 he married Miss Helen Louise Axson, of Atlanta, Georgia. Governor Wilson holds A. B., LL. D., Ph. D., and other degrees from Princeton, University of Virginia, Johns Hopkins, Brown, Harvard, Williams, Dartmouth and Yale universities.

It was as a writer that Woodrow Wilson first got before the people as a politician. He wrote voluminously of the evils of bossism, the corruption of politics, and the like, and quite naturally glided from the pen to the platform and banquet table, being asked to speak for various meetings and dinners in all the large cities.

"A prophet is not without honor save in his own country," and through his writing and after-dinner speeches, Woodrow Wilson was being talked about as a reformer long before the people of New Jersey considered him seriously.

As far back as 1904 people in the west were "talking about" Wilson as a presidential possibility, but New Jersey knew nothing of him or about it, and again at Denver, in 1908, he was "spoken of." But it was not until 1910 that the people of the doctor's adopted state "discovered" him. Then the democratic bosses of the corporation-ridden state decided that it was time to elect a governor. They had not had one since the days of Cleveland, and it was decided that reform was a good platform. Considering reformers, they picked on Wilson as a "man of the hour," and ran him. Wilson was elected, but the bosses soon were led to believe that they had "picked a lemon," for no sooner did "Praxey" have his long lean legs firmly entwined about the governor's chair rungs than he began loudly to defy. He defied the bosses, he defied the corporations, he defied everybody while the defying was good, and he made a noise that was heard throughout the country.

"The time when you can play politics and fool the people has gone by," was one of Governor Wilson's platitudes on the night he accepted the New Jersey "call" and there are those who now paraphrase his remarks thusly: "The time when you can play the people and fool the politicians has not come."

One of the most amazing incidents of Woodrow Wilson's campaign for the democratic presidential nomination was his embroglio with Col. George Harvey, editor of Harper's Weekly, and Col. Henry Watterson, editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, over the support accorded Wilson's boom by Harper's Weekly. For months the publication boosted Wilson in every issue, and then came the story in at Charlotte, N. C., newspaper that Governor Wilson had broken with Col. Harvey and requested him to discontinue his support of Wilson. Harper's Weekly came out with an explanation that it dropped Wilson at his request. Then Col. Watterson got into the game by telling of the meeting in New York of Col. Harvey, Gov. Wilson and himself, at which Wilson quarreled with Col. Harvey and Col. Watterson because they had enlisted in his behalf Thomas Fortune Ryan, millionaire traction and tobacco magnate. Col. Watterson maintained that at first Wilson took kindly to the Ryan proposition. The thing ended with Col. Watterson's proposal that the controversy be referred to an old fashioned court of honor. An incident of the affair was the publication of a letter that Gov. Wilson was said to have written to Adrian H. Joline, attacking William Jennings Bryan and hoping that he could be "knocked into a cocked hat." Col. Bryan evidently did not resent the letter, for he apparently was an admirer of the New Jersey governor at the Jackson Day dinner held shortly thereafter in Washington.

WANTS U. S. CONTROL

SENATOR NEWLANDS, BEFORE THE DRAINAGE CONGRESS, ASKS FEDERAL SUPERVISION OF THE RIVER.

CHICAGO, July 5.—Whether Uncle Sam shall act with decision or merely temporize in checking the devastating river floods and in draining the overflowed areas was the theme of historic debate during the conference in Chicago of the executive committee of the National Drainage Congress which has tackled the big problem. The comprehensive plan embodied in the Newlands bill, has been advocated vigorously by several members of the committee but other members have held that beyond large expenditures for certain phases of the reclamation work of Drainage Congress had nothing to ask. Senator Newlands, whose bill provides the co-ordinated steps which would store up the surplus waters in freshest season, improve river transportation, check soil erosion and afford drainage of the greater areas of overflowed lands, stated his views vigorously, saying: "The great loss in lives and property and happiness caused by the floods in the Ohio and Mississippi valleys in April could have been prevented, and a recurrence of such a catastrophe can be avoided. The United States Government should undertake the work. The control of the Mississippi river and its tributaries and the prevention of floods is a great work in which is needed the co-operation of the nation with the states. It is true drainage does not appear in the constitution, but the words 'regulation of interstate commerce' do appear, and interstate commerce means navigation and navigation means river regulation and control from the very source to the mouth, including all the tributaries; and such regulation and control logically means also the restraint of the flood waters as a destructive agency and their restraint with a view to turning them into a beneficial agency."

Elephant Most Intelligent.
The elephant is by a long shot the most intelligent animal under man. Some horses know a great deal, some dogs are exceedingly bright, but for real sound sense and all-around long-headedness the elephant heads the list. He is not only bright; he is a deep thinker and profound philosopher, and has been known to do things that apparently required nothing less than human intelligence. Read the books that have to do with animal intelligence, with the wonderful things that our dumb fellow-beings have done, and while you will find much to the credit of the dog, horse and other animals, you will be impressed with the fact that, next to man, the brain-power of the elephant is the greatest among them all.

One way to decrease the cost of living is not to live so well, but it isn't a good way.

Cantines Maternelles.
There are five dining-rooms in Paris where from fifty to eighty nursing mothers daily receive free meals. Cantines Maternelles these restaurants were called when they were started eight years ago by Mme. Henry Couillet of Paris. At first the only passport needed was the possession of a baby; but owing to the development of a confusing habit of borrowing babies so as to procure a meal, the rule was altered, and the provision of free meals is now dependent upon regular attendance at an adjoining baby clinic.

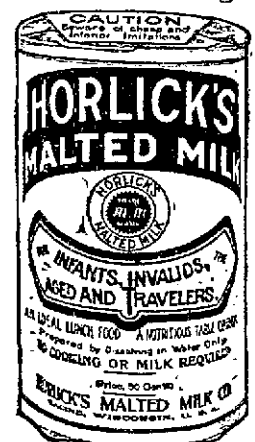

Weight of Wheat and Oats.
A bushel of wheat weighs, on the average, 60 pounds, and oats from 35 to 40.

Impoverishment of the soil has accompanied the failure to impound and control the rainfall.

Chicago Grain Letter
CHICAGO, July 5.—Trade in the wheat today was influenced by the continuation of the cool wet weather over the spring wheat country, and prices were considerably lower.

Liverpool reported prices lower at noon. The Modern Miller crop outlook said: "Where threshing of soft winter wheat is under way, reports are conflicting. Some are of full yields and others say the berry is thin, and that part of the grain is not fit for milling. Rains have interfered with the harvest in some localities and east of the Mississippi, rains are said to have damaged the wheat in the shock. Hard winter wheat is generally threshing out well."

Local sentiment in the corn market was bearish. Weather over the holiday has been in the deal.

Oats prices moved downward in sympathy with the other grains.

Provisions were weak.

MINE DEATH RATE UNDER CONTROL
United States Bureau of Mines Says High Tide in Accidents Is Past RATE BEGINS TO DECREASE
317 Fewer Lives Lost in 1911 Than Year Previous; Average Is 3.74 Per Thousand

WASHINGTON, July 5.—That the high tide in the terrible death rate in American coal mines has been reached and passed is the confident belief of the officials of the United States Bureau of Mines.
Figures issued today by the bureau show that 2,517 men were killed in the mines last year as against 2,834 for 1910. This shows a reduction in number of lives lost of 317 in one year's time. The death rate in 1910 was 3.81 men in every 1,000 employed. The rate in 1911 was 3.74.
Compared with 1907, the darkest year in the history of American mining, when 3,197 men lost their lives, 1911 shows a decrease of 680 in number of men killed. It was following the record of this year that Congress authorized the government to begin investigations looking toward a reduction in the death rate and this was supplemented in 1910 by the creation of the Bureau of Mines.
Discussing the death statistics of the coal mines, Dr. Joseph A. Holmes, Director of the Bureau of Mines said: "While these latest mortality statistics in the coal mines of the country show slight improvement over the previous years, the United States has still no record to be proud of. In spite of the progress we have made, we are still far below the standard of safety that we ought to have reached."
"It is of course comforting to know that for every million tons of coal mined, and that for every life lost we have each year taken out of the earth more tons of coal. This is an improvement in the right direction. I hope that within the next year or two we will see, as great an improvement in the reduction of the number of men killed per 1,000 men employed."

"The bureau is co-operating with the State Mine Inspectors, the mine workers and with the mine operators in an endeavor to solve many of the difficult problems connected with the coal mining industry in this country. In this effort all the above forces are co-operating in good spirit in the determination to bring about better conditions. In this co-operative effort there is also serious need of the statesmen. No branch of industry in this country is on so bad an economic basis today as is the coal mining industry, and this industry can never be placed on a satisfactory basis until, through important legislative changes, improvement in this economic basis is made possible."

Began In 1908.
It was early in 1908 that the federal government began its investigation of the causes of mine disasters following the climax of accidents in 1907. The record for 1907 and the following years is as follows:
1907, thirty-one hundred and ninety-seven men killed, or 4.88 in every 1,000 employed.
1908, twenty-four hundred and forty-nine killed, or 3.64 in every 1,000 employed.
1909, twenty-six hundred and sixty-eight killed, or 4 in every 1,000 employed.
1910, twenty-eight hundred and thirty-four men killed, or 3.91 in every 1,000 employed.
1911, twenty-five hundred and seventeen men killed, or 3.74 in every 1,000 employed.

POTATO GROWERS AFTER CUP
A trophy that is attracting considerable interest in southern Alberta is the $40 silver cup donated by R. A. Daker, district manager of the Canadian Life Assurance company, to the International Dry-Farming congress for the best peck of potatoes grown under dry farming conditions in southern Alberta, south of an imaginary line drawn east and west about 10 miles north of Calgary and exhibited at Lethbridge, October 21-26. There are many successful potato growers in this district, and this competition promises to be one of the features of the exposition next October.

THIN BLOOD IS EASILY REMEDIED
Every Dose of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Makes New Blood and Means Renewed Health And Strength.

People who are pale, languid, with slight palpitation of the heart, with difficulty in breathing and a tendency to fatigue are suffering from thin blood. They need only the resolution to take the right treatment and stick to it until cured. The remedy that can be relied upon is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. With every dose they make new blood and new blood means health and strength. They stop further progress of the disease and their success as a blood-builder can be plainly seen after a short trial. Thered cheeks, good appetite, increased weight and strength, cheerful disposition and relief from the symptoms, all declare the general improvement in health. It is pure blood now that is traveling everywhere through the body and the best fit goes on until health is restored.
Mrs. F. J. King, of No. 124 Poplar street, Carrick, Pa., says:
"A few years ago I began to fail in health because of the poor condition of my blood. I was weak and tired all of the time and sleep. I had frequent sick headaches and suffered terribly with them. I lost in weight and was so blue and down-hearted that I felt as though I was never going to be well and strong again. I couldn't sleep well and had terrible dreams. I was nervous and irritable and couldn't stand still a minute.
"My mother advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. After I had used the first box, I began to gain. I used them perhaps longer than I needed to, but continued taking them until I was certain that I was cured."
Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain the elements necessary to make new blood, and as the nerves get their nourishment from the blood, have been found invaluable in a wide range of diseases of the blood and nerves, such as neuritis, neuralgia, nervous debility, St. Vitus' dance and even partial paralysis and locomotor ataxia.
The remedy which gave Mrs. King complete health can be obtained at any drug store or direct from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., at 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50.

IS GOODBYE TO BE ABSOLUTE?
Singer Says Old Song Responsible for Popular Disuse of the Phrase

"Is good-bye becoming an absolute expression? Judging by the reluctance of a large majority of persons to use the old-fashioned parting word, it can scarcely survive another generation."
The question comes from George Hamlin, the celebrated singer, who laments the disuse into which the term has fallen.
"Say au revoir but not good-bye," the words of the famous song, have nearly meant the death of the word good-bye," said Hamlin. "The suggestion of eternal farewell given by the lyric is justifiable and perversive. The word is a contraction of God be with you, and although this original meaning has since faded, the good-bye conveyed no sense of final parting nor unpleasantness until the song became popular."
"Now-a-days superstition prevails upon half the individuals to whom the word is addressed. They openly declare their dislike for the ancient benediction, not understanding its hallowed significance, and prefer to say 'so long' or counsel their companions against pocketing any money."
"Though levity and badinage are common in times of peace and prosperity, admiration still clings to sincere, dignified speech. We adopt adieu, au revoir, until we are seven or eight and then, if our grand old traditions, evanescent as many of them are, can be preserved to the strengthening of universal good-will by a simple 'good-bye'?"

TRUST SEIZES NEW FISHING REGION
Another great fisheries region is on the hook of the alleged fish trust of Chicago, the announcement being made in connection with the financing of the Booth Fisheries Co. that the Newfoundland salt water fish business is well under its control and that concessions from the Canadian government have been granted. It is believed that the concessions include an exclusive one for salt, which never before have been sold to foreigners. Contracts made are said to grant waterpower and 20 square miles per each plant built, there being in addition for cold storage plants a governmental refund of one-third of all monies expended. A few months ago large salmon fishing interests of the northwest were secured and more recently the fish trade of New York City and of Boston was brought into line. Prior to that time the enormous fisheries of the Great Lakes and of Manitoba were controlled in a large measure by the Booth interests which also were well represented on the Gulf of Mexico. The Armour interests deny control of the fisheries company although personal counsel of J. Ogden Armour is said to be a dominant factor in the company.

RUSHFORD, MINN.
Miss Minnie Ahrens, a most able and convincing speaker, gave an illustrated lecture last Saturday evening at the Elite theater on "Child Development and Dangers" and "The Fly Pest." Both this and the other part of her lecture was finely illustrated by films and those illustrating the fly pest must surely have set the more serious minded to thinking deeply, judging from the applause and words of hearty praise.
